Ohio, Kentucky Twisters Kill 13 Persons

Tornadoes ripped into small communities in Kentucky and Ohio Tuesday, spreading death and destruction. Twisters also struck two towns in Michigan, causing damage but no deaths. The count of dead rose to 13. Included were 4 in Falmouth Ky., 1 near Augusta, Ky., 6 in Wheelersburg, Ohio, 1 in Clermont County Ohio and 1 in Brown County Ohio.

The storms injured 207 persons, left more than 700 homeless and wrought damage in excess of $2 million.

"We were going through a taste of death right there," reported Henry Dance, 77, a Falmouth resident who was at home with his wife.

"It sounded like a clap of thunder," he said, "and then the roof began to fall. Holding on to each other, we fell down by the divan and part of the floor fell on us. The Lord saved us, that's all."

A residential area of about six square blocks bore the brunt of the storm in Falmouth, a community of 2,600 in northern Kentucky. The business section of town was largely spared.

The twister, swirling out of thunderstorms Tuesday, struck at midafternoon at points near the Ohio river.

"We saw the funnel coming," reported Mrs. William Clinger, who works at the Falmouth Outlook, a weekly newspaper. "All of us ran into the basement. There was a horrible noise, like a train coming. Then it hit."

Mrs. Lewis Mockbee, 72, said, "It just began to blow, then the hail came, breaking out windows. I got down into a corner and prayed." The Mockbee home was spared, but a garage was destroyed.

Falmouth Mayor Max Goldberg said about one-third of the small farming community was destroyed. He said property damage would run between $2 and $3 million.

To the east some 125 miles, Wheelersburg reeled under the vicious eye of another twister. The count of injured stood at 75 while rescue workers still crawled over the wreckage of more than 40 homes searching for other victims.

The tornado cut a swath through several subdivisions, leveling or damaging houses and business places in its path. Wheelersburg is an unincorporated community eight miles east of Portsmouth, Ohio.

Near Cincinnati, tornadoes hit western Clermont County and then dipped again at Ripley in Brown County. The storm occurred shortly after the twister hit Falmouth, 35 miles south of Cincinnati.

A tornado destroyed half the homes in Frontier, Mich., a community of 300 five miles north of the Indiana State line, but only one person was reported injured, largely because Frontier was almost deserted.

The small town has no schools, so its children were educated elsewhere; it has almost no jobs to offer, so its working adults are employed elsewhere, and by happenstance most of its nonemployed womenfolk were at a club meeting in a neighboring town.

Linda Underwood and other school children in the Wheelersburg area had been sent home from classes because of the tornado warnings. Her sister, Brenda, 10, was critically injured when the twister hit their home.

The girls' mother, Mrs. Richard Underwood, had just left the house in an auto when the tornado struck. She saw the house picked up and dashed to pieces.

Mrs. Adkins, a widow who lived alone, was in her five-room house when the tornado hit. The twister lifted up the entire house and slammed it into a neighboring house, where no one was home.

"It made a sound just like a thud, and that was it," said another neighbor, Donald Creeger, whose own home suffered only minor damage.

Three cars of a freight train were blown off the tracks near here. Semitractor trailer trucks were bowled over on high ways, and 10 airplanes at the Scioto County Airport were tossed about like models. Hundreds of trees were uprooted.

The wife and two children of David Litteral escaped serious injury as their home was heaved from the foundation and dropped

MISS SOUTH CENTRAL OHIO CONTESTANT — Debra Sue Ankrom, a 5-foot-3-inch brown eyed blonde from Circleville and previous Miss Pumpkin Title, is among ten contestants for the Miss South Central Ohio title, a preliminary of the Miss Ohio and Miss America Pageants. Miss Ankrom, a graduate of Logan Elm High School, is a freshman at Ohio State University, Columbus, majoring in music education. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Ankrom of Route 4. Senate Group Reconsiders Hastily-Passed Gun Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee, some of its members unsure what decision it made on control of firearms sales, is reconsidering President Johnson's anti-crime bill.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., called a closed session of the committee for today in an effort to resolve the wrangle that flared after the committee had approved the measure April 4.

Earlier that same day—and just hours before Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated by a sniper using a rifle—the panel voted down administration measures to clamp controls on sales of rifles and shot guns.

FBI Charges Men in Holdup

CLEVELAND (AP)—The FBI has charged Gladys Patrick, 28, of Cleveland, with driving the getaway car used in the armed robbery of a Trumbull County bank last January.

Also charged in the $15,810 holdup of the bank in North Bloomfield was Rufus J. Jackson, 32, of Cleveland.

Charles Cusick, special agent in charge of the Cleveland FBI office, said detainees also have been filed against two other suspects in the robbery—Willie E. Stanton, 26, and Andrew L. Wells, 33, both of Cleveland.

Wells and Jackson have been charged with the armed robbery of the Central National Bank branch in Cleveland, last Feb. 7. About $4,000 was taken in that holdup.

Still at issue is whether the committee voted to prohibit or merely regulate interstate mail-order sales of handguns.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., contends that under the committee's action April 4, such sales would be banned. But Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., challenged Dodd's interpretation.

The same section also would prohibit importation of military surplus handguns, restrict import of other weapons and regulate sales of bazookas, mortars and similar devices.

Hruska said Tuesday the draft of the firearms-control section prepared by Dodd after the April 4 meeting "is not what we agreed on in committee." Dodd, who had offered the measure orally and written it out after the vote, maintained the two versions were identical.

Thinks Red Maneuvers May Be Ploy

Thant Confident Talks Will Start in Near Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says the United States isn't sure whether North Vietnam's expressed willingness to hold preliminary peace contacts is a trick or not, The Washington Post reports.

"We don't know if it's just a ploy," The Post quoted Johnson as saying Tuesday night at the annual White House reception for foreign diplomats.

The Post also quoted Johnson as saying while chatting with a small group which included reporters:

"We talked today and we talked yesterday. There are some who think that if they were serious they wouldn't have suggested Warsaw" as a site for initial talks on peace negotiations.

Another source quoted Johnson as saying, "We are in contact with them. We spoke to them yesterday and today—and we will be in contact with them tomorrow. We don't know whether it's a ploy or not."

The Post, in reporting Johnson said he wasn't positive whether North Vietnam wanted talks, said the President then shrugged "as if he didn't know whether or not to agree."

The North Vietnamese Communist Party newspaper Nhan Dan meanwhile, accused the United States Tuesday of "perfidious maneuvers" and said the Vietnamese people "demand that the U.S. government stop delaying preliminary contacts and accept either Phnom Penh or Warsaw as the venue."

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant expressed confidence in Paris that preliminary U.S.-North Vietnamese talks would get under way, "perhaps even this week."

U Thant told reporters the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, Warsaw, Paris or Geneva "are the cities where these preliminary talks could be held."

The United States has rejected Phnom Penh because Washington doesn't have diplomatic relations with Cambodia. And it has ruled out Warsaw because the Communist nation has aided North Vietnam.

Hanoi has written off Geneva and neither side has included Paris among the acceptable sites.

OSLO, Norway (AP) — King Olav V announced today that the wedding of his son, Crown Prince Harald, and Miss Sonja Haraldsen will take place Aug. 29 in Oslo Cathedral.

Status of Swing-Wing F111 Clouded

SAIGON (AP) — No F111s flew against North Vietnam Tuesday, but a U.S. military spokesman in Saigon implied tonight that the $6-million, swing-wing fighter-bomber has not been grounded again after its third crash in a month.

"There has been no change in the status of the F111," said the spokesman after a day of rumors and inquiries. He would not elaborate.

In Washington, the Pentagon refused to comment and said any information would have to come from Saigon.

There was no indication whether any F111s were used in the raids on North Vietnam today. Normally reports on the days air operations would not be given until Thursday.

The third F111 lost on Vietnam duty disappeared Monday night, and North Vietnam claimed today its forces had shot down the plane over Quang Binh, the province just north of the demilitarized zone. It said nothing about the two crewmen.

The U.S. Command said the plane was believed to have crashed in Thailand, but it gave no further information on the plane or the fate of the crew.

The North Vietnamese also claimed to have shot down the F111 which was lost March 23 and March 30. U.S. officers believe the first plane crashed in a remote area of Thailand or Laos, and the wreckage of the second was found in northern Thailand. Its crash was attributed to a capsule of sealing material mistakenly left by mechanics, that became lodged in the flight controls. The two crew members bailed out and were rescued.

Six F111s arrived at Ta Khli air base in Thailand March 17 and went into combat March 25. They were grounded for 11 days

2nd Ward Solon Vacancy Is Filled

Harold Clifton, 307 S. Court St., was named as Circleville's third ward councilman Tuesday, filling the vacancy created on the city's governing body by the resignation of Robert Turner.

Turner resigned when he and his family moved to the country this spring. He now lives near Stoutsville.

HAROLD CLIFTON

Clifton is no newcomer to city council. He served one year as the city's third ward councilman, three terms as councilman at large and two terms as council president.

Clifton has been chairman of the City Park Board, is a past president of the Kiwanis Club and Parent Teachers Assn. He is a member of the BPO Elks, Kiwanis Club Booster Club, Chamber of Commerce and was a charter member of the Circleville Jaycees.

HE has been in the automotive parts business since 1931 and is general manager of Clifton Auto Parts.

Clifton's appointment to council came after five ballots had been cast by the solons in their effort to fill the vacant post. The final ballot resulted in a tie and Council President Joseph Bell cast the deciding vote for the former solon.

The business of selecting the councilman was the prime reason for holding last night's adjourned meeting of council.

In the initial effort to fill the vacancy, Charles L. Tomlinson Jr., 512 S. Court St., was nominated by David Crawford. James Brown, 523 S. Court St., was nominated by John Jenkins and Clifton was nominated by Keith Wagner.

The first ballot resulted in a tie between Clifton and Tomlinson with Brown getting one vote. A second balloting was held and Clifton received

Phone Cable Is Damaged

CLEVELAND (AP) — A telephone cable was damaged by two rifle bullets today about 30 miles west of Toledo, the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. reported.

Several incidents of cable damage in the Toledo area have been reported since about 20,000 telephone employees in Ohio walked out last Thursday in support of a nationwide strike by the Communications Workers of America against the Bell telephone system. The union says its members have not been involved in the vandalism.

Ohio Bell has offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons maliciously damaging telephone plants and equipment.

A company spokesman said 47 circuits between Toledo and South Bend, Ind., were knocked out by today's incident. He said the cable was the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. long lines toll cable from which a 30-foot section was cut east of Toledo last Friday.

Ohio Bell also reported that a cable of the Crestview exchange in Dayton has been cut, apparently with an ax. The exchange serves 600 customers in South Dayton, a spokesman said.

after the crash March 30 and have flown combat missions on about 17 days in all. Two additional F111s were brought in to replace the first two losses.

Other Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps planes were out in force Tuesday to continue bombing highways, barges, gun positions and other targets in the section of North Vietnam left open to air raids by President Johnson's curtailment orders.

U.S. pilots flew 111 missions south of the 19th parallel—44 less than the day before—with the deepest penetration a strike against a railroad spur 168 miles north of the demilitarized zone covered by clouds which prevented damage assessments.

In South Vietnam, the B52s kept up their round-the-clock campaign against the A Shau Valley, an enemy stronghold for two years where intelligence reports indicate preparations may be under way for another big drive.

The eight-engine Stratofortresses flew six missions Tuesday and today against the valley, near the Laotian border, and also attacked targets 25 miles northwest of Kontum City in the central highlands.

Comparatively little ground activity was reported.

Roundtown

A ROUNDTOWNER, who wishes to remain anonymous because he and his family spent two hours in their basement Tuesday afternoon during the tornado warning, asked Pickaway Counties today to "never take a tornado warning lightly."

The local resident, who survived a tornado that struck his home "many years ago" said that he was warned then, but didn't heed the warning. "We were lucky then, all we lost was our home and personal things... it could have been our lives," he said. "Now they have radar equipment that can more accurately forecast a tornado's path, he continued, and when a 'tornado warning' is issued I'll do my darndest to get my family under shelter."

Pick Cleveland Site for Ohio Trade Center

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes announced today that Cleveland has been chosen as the site for Ohio's International Trade Center.

The governor told a news conference here that a committee set up to decide on a site had voted unanimously in favor of Cleveland after visiting 10 other cities.

The center would provide employment and attract new industry to the area, the governor said, and was urgently needed to provide a show place for the state's exports and imports.

He pointed out Ohio was the country's third largest exporter after New York and California.

Mayor Carl B. Stokes said a commission would be established to decide where in Cleveland the center would be built.

The mayor said the question of financing the center would be decided later but there was a possibility of Cleveland getting assistance from the state.

He said no date had been fixed for work to start on the center and plans for the building still had to be drawn up.

No Storm Damage Here

Funnel Clouds Spotted at LAFB

Circleville and Pickaway County areas escaped personal injuries and property damage as the result of tornadoes and several storms that lashed many parts of Ohio and Kentucky Tuesday.

Heavy rainfall and high winds did hit the area, however, during the storm's peak. Over one-half inch of rain was recorded (.55 of an inch) and winds were clocked in excess of 40 miles per hour.

Funnel clouds were spotted north of Circleville by Lockbourne Air Force Base observers although none "touched down in the area."

Five Circleville residents were caught in the tornado as it struck Wheelersburg Tuesday and escaped without injury.

Returning in one car from a trip to Kentucky at the time were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Duncan, Mrs. Glenn Stevenson, Mrs. J.C. Beery and Mrs. Ralph Dunkle, all of Pickney St.

"We could see the dark clouds behind us," stated Mrs. Beery as she recounted the events of the storm. "We never really saw the funnel," she continued, but suddenly the back window of the car was blown out and there were pieces of glass and debris all over everyone.

The passengers were thankful for their luck, she continued. A large tractor-trailer truck in front of them and a car behind them were both overturned injuring the passengers.

We were all scared but safe, she stated. It took some time to remove sheet tin and roofing that had blown under the car and damaged the vehicle, but despite heavy damage to the car, they were able to continue their trip home.

Severe storm warnings and tornado alerts were sounded for this area about 2 p.m. and were lifted before 6 p.m.

WEATHER officials were quick to point out today the difference between a "tornado watch" and a "tornado warning or alert." A "tornado watch" means that residents should keep themselves posted as to the development of a storm in a particular pressure area. Should tornadoes develop, the alarm is changed to a "tornado warning" and persons in areas listed by the weather bureau are advised to take shelter in a basement or other well protected area.

There were "tornado warnings" posted for the western Pickaway County area from time to time Tuesday. The sightings at Lockbourne were evidence that area residents should have taken cover.

Tuesday's storm caused a sudden drop in the temperature and the low reading here this morning was 43 degrees.

Extremes of 53-56 and 34-36 have been forecast for the Pickaway County area with partly cloudy skies accompanied by wind.

Historical Society Names Manager

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Historical Society announced today the appointment of Joseph E. Lee of New Paris, Preble County, as manager of the Society's Southwestern District.

Lee has been a Preble County commissioner since 1956 and is a former deputy sheriff. He also is a farmer and real estate dealer. He takes his new post May 6, succeeding Lawrence J. Gray after 37 years in various posts with the society.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes announced today that Cleveland has been chosen as the site for Ohio's International Trade Center. The governor told a news conference here that a committee set up to decide on a site had voted unanimously in favor of Cleveland after visiting 10 other cities. The center would provide employment and attract new industry to the area, the governor said, and was urgently needed to provide a show place for the state's exports and imports. He pointed out Ohio was the country's third largest exporter after New York and California. Mayor Carl B. Stokes said a commission would be established to decide where in Cleveland the center would be built. The mayor said the question of financing the center would be decided later but there was a possibility of Cleveland getting assistance from the state. He said no date had been fixed for work to start on the center and plans for the building still had to be drawn up.

2nd Ward Solon Vacancy Is Filled

Harold Clifton, 307 S. Court St., was named as Circleville's third ward councilman Tuesday, filling the vacancy created by the city's governing body by the resignation of Robert Turner.

Turner resigned when he and his family moved to the country this spring. He now lives near Stoutsville.

Clifton is no newcomer to city council. He served one year as the city's third ward councilman, three terms as councilman at large and two terms as council president.

Clifton has been chairman of the City Park Board, is a past president of the Kiwanis Club and Parent Teachers Assn. He is a member of the BPO Elks, Kiwanis Club Booster Club, Chamber of Commerce and was a charter member of the Circleville Jaycees.

Phone Cable Is Damaged

CLEVELAND (AP) — A telephone cable was damaged by two rifle bullets today about 30 miles west of Toledo, the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. reported. Several incidents of cable damage in the Toledo area have been reported since about 20,000 telephone employees in Ohio walked out last Thursday in support of a nationwide strike by the Communications Workers of America against the Bell telephone system. The union says its members have not been involved in the vandalism. Ohio Bell has offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons maliciously damaging telephone plants and equipment. A company spokesman said 47 circuits between Toledo and South Bend, Ind., were knocked out by today's incident. He said the cable was the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. long lines toll cable from which a 30-foot section was cut east of Toledo last Friday. Ohio Bell also reported that a cable of the Crestview exchange in Dayton has been cut, apparently with an ax. The exchange serves 600 customers in South Dayton, a spokesman said.

No Storm Damage Here

Funnel Clouds Spotted at LAFB

Circleville and Pickaway County areas escaped personal injuries and property damage as the result of tornadoes and several storms that lashed many parts of Ohio and Kentucky Tuesday.

Heavy rainfall and high winds did hit the area, however, during the storm's peak. Over one-half inch of rain was recorded (.55 of an inch) and winds were clocked in excess of 40 miles per hour. Funnel clouds were spotted north of Circleville by Lockbourne Air Force Base observers although none "touched down in the area."

Five Circleville residents were caught in the tornado as it struck Wheelersburg Tuesday and escaped without injury. Returning in one car from a trip to Kentucky at the time were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Duncan, Mrs. Blenn Stevenson, Mrs. J.C. Beery and Mrs. Ralph Dumke, all of Pimkinney St. "We could see the dark clouds behind us," stated Mrs. Beery as she recounted the events of the storm. "We never really saw the funnel," she continued, but suddenly the back window of the car was blown out and there were pieces of glass and debris all over everyone.

The passengers were thankful for their luck, she continued. A large tractor-trailer truck in front of them and a car behind them were both overturned injuring the passengers.

We were all scared but safe, she stated. It took some time to remove sheet tin and roofing that had blown under the car and damaged the vehicle, but despite heavy damage to the car, they were able to continue their trip home.

Severe storm warnings and tornado alerts were sounded for this area about 2 p.m. and were lifted before 6 p.m.

WEATHER officials were quick to point out today the difference between a "tornado warning" and a "tornado watch" or alert. A "tornado watch" means that residents should keep themselves posted as to the development of a storm in a particular pressure area. Should tornadoes develop, the alarm is changed to a "tornado warning" and persons in areas listed by the weather bureau are advised to take shelter in a basement or other well-protected area.

There were "tornado warnings" posted for the western Pickaway County area from time to time Tuesday. The sightings at Lockbourne were evidence that area residents should have taken cover. Tuesday's storm caused a sudden drop in the temperature and the low reading here this morning was 43 degrees. Extremes of 53-56 and 34-36 have been forecast for the Pickaway County area with partly cloudy skies accompanied by wind.

Historical Society Names Manager

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Historical Society announced today the appointment of Joseph E. Lee of New Paris, Preble County, as manager of the Society's Southwestern District. Lee has been a Preble County commissioner since 1956 and is a former deputy sheriff. He also is a farmer and real estate dealer. He takes his new post May 6, succeeding Lawrence J. Gray after 37 years in various posts with the society.

Cash Curbs Bring Spur To Tax Hike, Spending Slashes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is battling inflation with the one weapon it most wanted to avoid—tight money.

But there are increasing signs in Congress that two big guns—a tax hike and cuts in federal spending—may soon be added to the arsenal of weapons against rising prices.

Some government officials are convinced Congress is now in a mood to act on taxes although the details—including the spending cuts on which congressmen have insisted—still must be worked out.

It's doubtful, however, that Uncle Sam will begin collecting higher taxes from individual

Program Set On Youth by Toastmasters

The two Toastmasters Youth Leadership Classes will hold a combined final ceremony 7 p.m. Thursday in the high school cafeteria.

Eight Teen-Toasters are scheduled to make four to five minute presentations. A Table Topics session with all graduates participating will also be presented. First and second place trophies will be presented to the winners of each of the two classes.

The classes were sponsored by the Circleville Toastmasters Club. The instructors included accomplished speakers from the local club. Toastmaster Bob Ogden, coordinator of Class No. 1 was assisted by Toastmasters George Robinson and Rusty Vaughn. Toastmaster Bill Kirkpatrick, coordinator of Class No. 2, was assisted by Toastmaster Bill Gary.

The Youth Leadership Program was developed for young people by Toastmasters International, the world-wide self development organization. It was adapted in collaboration with educators and youth counselors from the organization's adult program which has benefited more than a million men since it was introduced in 1924.

Bob Rustin, the president of Circleville Toastmasters said "This program has been a very rewarding experience for all Circleville Toastmasters. The enthusiasm and eagerness of these young people has been a real challenge to all of us. We are sure this training will be of real benefit to our community and its future leaders. We are already planning to set up these classes as a yearly project for the Circleville organizations interested in holding special classes are invited to inquire for further information."

125 Pass Bar Exam For Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court announced today the results of the March 5-7 bar examination with Norman Lawrence Christley of Medina making the highest grade of 329 out of a possible 400 points.

Christley is a graduate of the Cleveland Marshall Law School.

Second highest grade went to Mrs. Katherine Louise Himes-Nitschke of Cleveland Heights, a graduate of Hastings College of Law, University of California. Her grade was 327.5.

These were the only grades announced by the court. A total of 125 applicants, or 76.7 per cent of those who took the tests, passed the examination and 38 applicants or 23.3 per cent were unsuccessful.

The oath of office will be administered to the new attorneys on Saturday, May 4, at 2 p.m. in the main auditorium of the Franklin County Veterans Memorial Building in Columbus. Chief Justice Kinsley A. Taft will preside and Judge C. William O'Neill will administer the oath of office.

The successful applicants included:

Norman Edward Cook, 215 W. 1st, Paulding.

Paul Joseph Gerig, Carriage Hills Apts., Athens.

Robert Shepard Olson, 717 Southline Drive, Lebanon.

Christopher Edward Veidt, 201 E. Second, Logan.

Richard Gerald Ward, 530 Arch St. Chillicothe.

BJ May Cancel Visit

CHICAGO (AP) — City officials made arrangements Tuesday for a visit by President Johnson, but later there was uncertainty about whether the chief executive would make the trip today.

An aide to Mayor Richard J. Daley said Tuesday that the President would attend a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Chicago tonight. Later the aide said there was some doubt the President would attend.

George Christian, White House press secretary, said in Washington Tuesday, "I have no information on it. As far as I know, no decision has been made."

The $100-a-plate dinner is designed to raise funds for candidates for statewide office.

At Perintown in Clermont County, John Blasky was mowing his yard.

"It was a twister with dust and all sorts of dirty things flying around," he said. "It came like an airplane. Once I was in a coma, and I was scared, but I was much more scared today." Blasky was not hurt.

Other parts of the state were hit by severe storms and buffeting winds. At Lodi, 22 miles south of Cleveland, a tornado touched down, resulting in heavy damage to one house but causing no injuries. Other funnel clouds were sighted in Northern Ohio, which was lashed by heavy rain and hail.

Tornado-like winds also hit Central Ohio. An airport tower at the Ohio State University airport in Columbus was demolished.

Viet Police Chief Slaps U.S. Report

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's controversial national police chief has told his chief American adviser that withholding of American funds and equipment won't force him to fire police officials the Americans consider corrupt or inefficient.

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan wrote U.S. adviser John Manopoli he would pay no attention to U.S. reports on police personnel "when they threaten to withdraw support as a means of applying pressure."

"If your division sees fit to cut aid to any police unit as a means of applying pressure, please feel free to do so," Loan said in the letter, written April 1.

Manopoli is on leave outside Vietnam and was not available for comment.

Manopoli's office had forwarded to Loan several reports from U.S. advisers in the field with evidence of corruption or gross incompetence on the part of police officials, sources said.

One of the reports concerned Lu Van Vinh, police chief of Vung Tau, a seaside resort southeast of Saigon and a major recreation area for U.S. soldiers.

Demonstration At Columbia Is Widespread

NEW YORK (AP) — A demonstration at Columbia University that locked a dean in his office overnight spread today from Columbia College's major classroom to the university's main administration building.

City police moved onto the campus about 8 a.m. but no arrests were made.

Shortly before they arrived, about 200 students moved their protest against construction of a gymnasium on a nearby Harlem park and against a defense-oriented program involving the university, from the Hamilton Hall classroom building to the administration center, Low Memorial Library.

A police captain ordered students to leave the administration building and said anyone who refused would be arrested.

However, Tony Papert, a member of the committee which organized the protest, said an undetermined number of students decided to remain until their demands were met.

Several hundred other students headed down the library steps to Hamilton Hall, where the all-night sit-in by students and neighborhood youths, predominantly Negro, continued.

The students massed in front of the building, where 300 students had barricaded Dean Henry S. Coleman and other officials in their offices.

Ford, Rockefeller Disagree On Need for White March

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrialist Henry Ford and financier David Rockefeller disagree with civil rights leader Whitney Young Jr. that they should lead a "white march" on Washington to prove white America's commitment to racial equality.

Both said Tuesday they believed their efforts to win more jobs for Negroes, among other activities, would be more effective than organizing such a march.

Young, executive director of the National Urban League, suggested the white march earlier Tuesday at the annual meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

He said such a march of hundreds of thousands of whites, led by men like Ford, Rockefeller and labor leader George Meany may be the "last chance" the nation has to avoid rebellion by poor and frustrated Negroes.

Rockefeller said he wondered "whether business cannot contribute more effectively to the solution of racial discrimination and other urban problems through organizations such as Mr. Young's own Urban League and the Urban Coalition rather than through participation in public demonstrations."

"It seems to me that the wisest course would be for the business community to accelerate its growing effort to provide training and jobs for minorities and lend even greater support in dealing with education, housing and welfare."

Ford said: "I am interested in his ideas and I have great respect for his judgment but I am not convinced that marching on Washington is the best way for me to make an effective contribution to the lessening of racial tensions."

"I feel I can better serve the cause for which Mr. Young has fought so vigorously by concentrating on the task of finding jobs for the hard-core unemployed. This is the job the President asked me to do and it is in this area that I will be spending my energies."

Meany's office in Washington said he had no comment.

a 3-2 edge in votes.

At this point, Council President Bell asked Mayor Richard Gerhardt if the councilman could be appointed by a simple majority vote. City Solicitor Charles Hosterman, Council's legal adviser, was not present.

AFTER reviewing state statutes governing the situation, Gerhardt informed council that it established its own procedure for filling the seat.

Bell noted that council followed Roberts Rules of Order and the mayor said they should cover the situation.

At this point, fourth ward councilman Boyd Horn arrived at the meeting. To allow Horn a chance to vote, the original motion to close the nominations was withdrawn and the process began again.

This time, Horn nominated Sam Winfough, along with Clifton and Tomlinson. Brown was not renominated.

The first ballot resulted in three votes for Clifton, two for Tomlinson and one for Winfough. Council President Bell informed council they would vote for either Clifton or Tomlinson for the vacancy. This balloting resulted in a 3-3 deadlock. Another round of voting still resulted in a deadlock and Bell had to cast the deciding vote.

Because the city solicitor was not present at the meeting, Clifton was not sworn in.

IN OTHER action taken Tuesday, the Model Cities planning grant resolution presented by Mayor Gerhardt last Tuesday was given a second reading even though it was an adjourned session.

Gerhardt informed council, when questioned whether the second reading could be held in the same meeting, that statute said only the readings be held on separate days.

A resolution was also passed to grant Multi-Channel TV a one year franchise at a fee of $600.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, a session was held with the Public Utilities Board of Elsea Inc. to discuss Elsea's request that they be allowed to tap into the sanitary sewer for a proposed trailer park expansion.

Council generally seemed to favor the request but several noted that the area should be annexed to the city first.

British Workers Demand Tough Immigration Policy

LONDON (AP) — Hundreds of London dock workers struck today to demand restrictions on the immigration of colored workers to Britain.

The walkouts were in support of Conservative politician Enoch Powell, who was purged from the opposition party's high command for opposing the Labor government's proposed new anti-discrimination law with an inflammatory speech.

Thirteen ships were left idle when about 550 longshoremen refused to go to work at one group of docks.

In London's Smithfield Market workers put more than 3,000 signatures on a petition supporting Powell, and 600 men said they would march to the House of Commons to present it.

More than 1,500 longshoremen marched to Commons Tuesday to express support for Powell

Russia, U.S. Confident U.N. Will Approve Atom Treaty

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union were reported confident today that they would overcome opposition and win the U.N. General Assembly's approval of the proposed treaty banning the further spread of nuclear weapons.

This word came from informed quarters as the 123-nation assembly gathered to resume its 22nd session, which was suspended last December to permit final negotiations on the treaty by the 17-nation Disarmament Committee in Geneva.

Debate on the so-called non-proliferation treaty is expected to begin in the assembly's main political committee Friday after work of the session is organized and Mauritius, a former British territory in the Indian Ocean, has been admitted to U.N. membership.

Also on the agenda for the session is the Middle East situation and South Africa's refusal to transfer the administration of South-West Africa to the United Nations.

Soviet and American sources discounted speculation that opponents of the U.S.-Soviet draft treaty on nonproliferation might be able to sidetrack action until the fall session of the assembly. It was agreed that this idea had substantial backing, but neither of the big powers seemed in the mood for yielding.

Moscow and Washington also appeared to be firm against any major amendments to the draft they worked out privately.

The outlook was that the draft probably would be approved by the assembly, after a long debate, and that by the end of May it would be submitted to governments for ratification. The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain have agreed that if the treaty is adopted they will give guarantees to non-nuclear countries that they will come to their aid in the event of a nuclear attack.

The main reservations have been advanced by West Germany, Japan, Italy, Romania, Brazil and India. They object partly because they are not sure they will be able to get nuclear materials needed for peaceful uses and because Red China and France will not sign the treaty.

Cash Curbs Bring Spur To Tax Hike, Spending Slashes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is battling inflation with the one weapon it most wanted to avoid—tight money.

But there are increasing signs in Congress that two big guns—a tax hike and cuts in federal spending—may soon be added to the arsenal of weapons against rising prices.

Some government officials are convinced Congress is now in a mood to act on taxes although the details—including the spending cuts on which congressmen have insisted—still must be worked out.

It's doubtful, however, that Uncle Sam will begin collecting higher taxes from individual

Program Set On Youth by Toastmasters

The two Toastmasters Youth Leadership Classes will hold a combined final ceremony 7 p.m. Thursday in the high school cafeteria.

Eight Teen-Toasters are scheduled to make four to five minute presentations. A Table Topics session with all graduates participating will also be presented. First and second place trophies will be presented to the winners of each of the two classes.

The classes were sponsored by the Circleville Toastmasters Club. The instructors included accomplished speakers from the local club. Toastmaster Bob Ogden, coordinator of Class No. 1 was assisted by Toastmasters George Robinson and Rusty Vaughn. Toastmaster Bill Kirkpatrick, coordinator of Class No. 2, was assisted by Toastmaster Bill Gary.

The Youth Leadership Program was developed for young people by Toastmasters International, the world-wide self development organization. It was adapted in collaboration with educators and youth counselors from the organization's adult program which has benefited more than a million men since it was introduced in 1924.

Bob Rustin, the president of Circleville Toastmasters said "This program has been a very rewarding experience for all Circleville Toastmasters. The enthusiasm and eagerness of these young people has been a real challenge to all of us. We are sure this training will be of real benefit to our community and its future leaders. We are already planning to set up these classes as a yearly project for the Circleville organizations interested in holding special classes are invited to inquire for further information."

At Perintown in Clermont County, John Blasky was moving his yard.

"It was a twister with dust and all sorts of dirty things flying around," he said. "It came like an airplane. Once I was in a coma, and I was scared, but I was much more scared today." Blasky was not hurt.

Other parts of the state were hit by severe storms and buffeting winds. At Lodi, 22 miles south of Cleveland, a tornado touched down, resulting in heavy damage to one house but causing no injuries. Other funnel clouds were sighted in Northern Ohio, which was lashed by heavy rain and hail.

Tornado-like winds also hit in Central Ohio. An airport tower at the Ohio State University airport in Columbus was demolished.

Viet Police Chief Slaps U.S. Report

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's controversial national police chief has told his chief American adviser that withholding of American funds and equipment won't force him to fire police officials the Americans consider corrupt or inefficient.

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan wrote U.S. adviser John Manopoli he would pay no attention to U.S. reports on police personnel "when they threaten to withdraw support as a means of applying pressure."

"If your division sees fit to cut aid to any police unit as a means of applying pressure, please feel free to do so," Loan said in the letter, written April 1.

Manopoli is on leave outside Vietnam and was not available for comment.

Manopoli's office had forwarded to Loan several reports from U.S. advisers in the field with evidence of corruption or gross incompetence on the part of police officials, sources said.

One of the reports concerned Lu Van Vinh, police chief of Vung Tau, a seaside resort southeast of Saigon and a major recreation area for U.S. soldiers.

Demonstration At Columbia Is Widespread

NEW YORK (AP) — A demonstration at Columbia University that locked a dean in his office overnight spread today from Columbia College's major classroom to the university's main administration building.

City police moved onto the campus about 8 a.m. but no arrests were made.

Shortly before they arrived, about 200 students moved their protest against construction of a gymnasium on a nearby Harlem park and against a defense-oriented program involving the university, from the Hamilton Hall classroom building to the administration center, Low Memorial Library.

A police captain ordered students to leave the administration building and said anyone who refused would be arrested.

However, Tony Papert, a member of the committee which organized the protest, said an undetermined number of students decided to remain until their demands were met.

Several hundred other students headed down the library steps to Hamilton Hall, where the all-night sit-in by students and neighborhood youths, predominantly Negro, continued.

The students massed in front of the building, where 300 students had barricaded Dean Henry S. Coleman and other officials in their offices.

Council generally seemed to favor the request but several noted that the area should be annexed to the city first.

Cancel Visit
CHICAGO (AP) — City officials made arrangements Tuesday for a visit by President Johnson, but later there was uncertainty about whether the chief executive would make the trip today.

An aide to Mayor Richard J. Daley said Tuesday that the President would attend a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Chicago tonight. Later the aide said there was some doubt the President would attend.

George Christian, White House press secretary, said in Washington Tuesday, "I have no information on it. As far as I know, no decision has been made."

The $100-a-plate dinner is designed to raise funds for candidates for statewide office.

Trudeau Calls June Election For Canada

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada's swinging new prime minister, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, betting that his charisma will win his Liberal party a majority, has called a general election after four days in office.

Parliament returned from a 25-day recess Tuesday to hear Trudeau tell it, it was dissolved and elections would be held June 25. The House of Commons responded with prolonged applause.

Trudeau told newsmen there is an atmosphere of uncertainty in Canada that an early election would dispel. He said he and his Liberal party are seeking the support of the people for a "comprehensive program of reform."

The Liberals have been the largest party in Commons since they won the April, 1963, general election, but they have never had a majority and have been forced to depend on the support of the smaller parties. At dissolution, the Liberals held 128 of the 265 seats in Commons.

Trudeau, a dynamic 48-year-old bachelor whose appeal to younger voters has been compared to the late President Kennedy's, apparently hopes to capitalize on the considerable publicity he has generated since the Liberals chose him to succeed Lester B. Pearson on April 6. By law he did not have to call an election until 1970.

In choosing Trudeau, the Liberal convention passed over a field of experienced and familiar political figures and picked a handsome French-Canadian better known for his miniskirted girl friends and sports cars than for political activities.

Opposition leader Robert Stanfield, 54, whose Conservatives had 94 seats in the outgoing House of Commons, also is a newcomer to Ottawa. After 20 years in the Conservative leadership in Nova Scotia, he was provincial premier when elected last September to succeed John Diefenbaker as the party's national leader.

Trudeau's office said he had no comment.

Meany's office in Washington said he had no comment.

2nd Ward . . .

a 3-2 edge in votes.

At this point, Council President Bell asked Mayor Richard Gerhardt if the councilman could be appointed by a simple majority vote. City Solicitor Charles Hosterman, Council's legal adviser, was not present.

AFTER reviewing state statutes governing the situation, Gerhardt informed council that it established its own procedure for filling the seat.

Bell noted that council followed Roberts Rules of Order and the mayor said they should cover the situation.

At this point, fourth ward councilman Boyd Horn arrived at the meeting. To allow Horn a chance to vote, the original motion to close the nominations was withdrawn and the process began again.

This time, Horn nominated Sam Winfough, along with Clifton and Tomlinson. Brown was not renominated.

The first ballot resulted in three votes for Clifton, two for Tomlinson and one for Winfough. Council President Bell informed council they would vote for either Clifton or Tomlinson for the vacancy. This balloting resulted in a 3-3 deadlock. Another round of voting still resulted in a deadlock and Bell had to cast the deciding vote.

Because the city solicitor was not present at the meeting, Clifton was not sworn in.

IN OTHER action taken Tuesday, the Model Cities planning grant resolution presented by Mayor Gerhardt last Tuesday was given a second reading even though it was an adjourned session.

Gerhardt informed council, when questioned whether the second reading could be held in the same meeting, that statute said only the readings be held on separate days.

A resolution was also passed to grant Multi-Channel TV a one year franchise at a fee of $600.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, a session was held with the Public Utilities Board of Elsea Inc. to discuss Elsea's request that they be allowed to tap into the sanitary sewer for a proposed trailer park expansion.

Council generally seemed to favor the request but several noted that the area should be annexed to the city first.

For Dr. Spock
BOSTON (AP) — Baby doctor Benjamin Spock and four others, including Yale University Chaplain William Sloane Coffin, Jr., must go to trial May 20 on charges of counseling young men to avoid the draft.

Edward Bost, 418 E. Mill St., pleaded guilty before Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb Tuesday to a charge of failing to surrender his driver's license and registration when so ordered by the State Bureau of Motor Vehicle.

Bost was fined $50 and costs with the fine suspended.

Kenneth Casto, 19, Route 3, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of driving left of center. He was fined $25 and costs.

John Huffman, 21, Mt. Sterling, forfeited a $19 bond set on a charge of speeding 70 miles in a 60 mile zone.

The court collected $280 in fines, bond forfeitures and costs from 12 out-of-county motorists.

British Workers Demand Tough Immigration Policy

LONDON (AP) — Hundreds of London dock workers struck again today to demand restrictions on the immigration of colored workers to Britain.

The walkouts were in support of Conservative politician Enoch Powell, who was purged from the opposition party's high command for opposing the Labor government's proposed new anti-discrimination law with an inflammatory speech.

Thirteen ships were left idle when about 550 longshoremen refused to go to work at one group of docks.

In London's Smithfield Market workers put more than 3,000 signatures on a petition supporting Powell, and 600 men said they would march to the House of Commons to present it.

More than 1,500 longshoremen marched to Commons Tuesday to express support for Powell when the house began debate on the bill. But unless the protests from the workers gave Prime Minister Harold Wilson cold feet, the government's bill to ban racial discrimination in jobs and housing appears certain to become law this summer.

Russia, U.S. Confident U.N. Will Approve Atom Treaty

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union were reported confident today that they would overcome opposition and win the U.N. General Assembly's approval of the proposed treaty banning the further spread of nuclear weapons.

This word came from informed quarters as the 123-nation assembly gathered to resume its 22nd session, which was suspended last December to permit final negotiations on the treaty by the 17-nation Disarmament Committee in Geneva.

Also on the agenda for the session is the Middle East situation and South Africa's refusal to transfer the administration of South-West Africa to the United Nations.

Soviet and American sources discounted speculation that opponents of the U.S.-Soviet draft treaty on nonproliferation might be able to sidetrack action until the fall session of the assembly.

Heath fired Powell from the Conservative shadow Cabinet, calling the speech "racist in tone and liable to exacerbate racial tensions." Powell, a leader of the opposition party's right wing, had called for a ban on further colored immigration and payments to induce the one million nonwhites in Britain to return to their native lands. He called colored immigration "a match on gunpowder" and said "rivers of blood will eventually flow."

It was agreed that this idea had substantial backing, but neither of the big powers seemed in the mood for yielding.

Moscow and Washington also appeared to be firm against any major amendments to the draft they worked out privately.

The outlook was that the draft probably would be approved by the assembly, after a long debate, and that by the end of May it would be submitted to governments for ratification.

The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain have agreed that if the treaty is adopted they will give guarantees to non-nuclear countries that they will come to their aid in the event of a nuclear attack.

The main reservations have been advanced by West Germany, Japan, Italy, Romania, Brazil and India. They object partly because they are not sure they will be able to get nuclear materials needed for peaceful uses and because Red China and France will not sign the treaty.

Debate on the so-called non-proliferation treaty is expected to begin in the assembly's main political committee Friday after work of the session is organized.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market showed a hesitant gain this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

Gains outnumbered losses by a ratio of 7 to 4 on the New York Stock Exchange, but weakness in selected blue chips dampened some averages.

Chrysler and United Aircraft dropped more than a point each, and Du Pont was down about 2. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.33 at 896.15.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .3 at 323.5, with industrials up .8, rails up .7, and utilities up .6.

The ticker tape lagged for a few minutes in the morning, but it caught abreast as prices softened.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Castro Goes On

Now in his tenth year in power, Fidel Castro continues to survive one difficulty after another. His industrialization program has been largely an expensive failure.

The sugar crop, which earns about 80 per cent of Cuba's foreign exchange, has been forecast this year at 5.2 million tons, a drop of nearly a million from 1967. An outside expert estimates 114 of Cuba's 152 operating sugar mills need rebuilding if production is to be significantly increased.

The American economic blockade is hurting. The death of Ernesto Che Guevara appears also to have marked the death of ambitions to export Castroism throughout Latin America.

Castro holds on, however, with $400 million in annual assistance from Moscow, and manages still to conduct a fourth of his foreign trade with non-communist nations like Great Britain, Canada, Japan and Spain.

Doubling the number of children in school is said to have virtually eliminated illiteracy, but it has also intensified indoctrination in the glories of communism.

Chaotic as Cuba appears, it looks as if communism will be at the doorstep of the U.S. for some time to come. With Moscow as a guide, and with his own experience as a revolutionary giving him an advantage over others who might try the same route to power, Castro has shown he knows how to keep his people under his fist, whether they like it or not.

Demand for Roads

It is an article of faith in the motor age that highways are not only necessary but an undoubted good, and the more of them the better. But roads can be beneficial or harmful, depending on the area.

Existing congestion makes new highways necessary, but transportation officials agree there is a limit to the number that can be built in urban areas.

That government has an obligation to furnish space for as many millions of cars as the public wants to use is an assumption that must soon be weighed against other equally essential uses for land.

All of which supports those who hold that for congested urban areas, transportation planning must embrace an integrated system of highways and mass transit.

Wall St. Peace Mongers

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

When Howard Stein, the president of the Dreyfus Fund, one of the bigger of the mutual funds, took a leave of absence from his post to serve as a Presidential campaign money-raiser for Senator Eugene McCarthy, he was not behaving as an aberrant character. The truth is that Wall Streeters, even more than the college kids of draft age, are so hungry for peace in Vietnam that they can taste it every time there is the slightest reason to believe that Ho Chi Minh is ready to talk about talking about talks.

This columnist has been listening to brokers and other members of the financial community lately, and the evidence is plain: it is Wall Street that finally got Lyndon Johnson down. The President couldn't stand the pressure of depressed markets, or the thought that ruin might possibly be staring the dollar in the face. The prevailing theory at the southern tip of Manhattan Island is that peace must be had no matter what, if only to hold the American economy together.

The swift upward response of the stock exchanges to the first

Johnson peace overtures, which had Dow Chemical bounding to new highs on prospects of seeing its contested business in napalm manufacture disappear, must have had Karl Marx whirling in his grave. The Marxist-Leninist thesis, of course, is that stock markets are run by war-mongering imperialists who have a vested interest in selling munitions and grabbing off new colonies for economic exploitation. But this time Wall Street is even more pacifist in its emotions than Dr. Ben Spock or the Reverend William Sloane Coffin. Ho Chi Minh couldn't ask for a more effective meeting of conservative and radical extremes.

The Wall Street rationale, as distilled from a number of conversations, makes short-term sense. The involvement in Vietnam has been bleeding the economy. This particular war has not been expanding the U.S. manufacturing plant. By diverting funds from urgent domestic problems it has provoked destruction in the cities. Dollars going to Southeast Asia have, by legerdemain that is best known to manipulators, turned up in Red China and in Europe, ready for use in raiding the U.S. gold reserve. The war keeps Lyndon Johnson from balancing both his domestic budget and our international payments. Meanwhile, there is the ugly divisiveness that has set students against their elders, and the doves against the hawks. So why, asks Wall Street, continue the war?

The only answer to Wall Street is that the bull market resulting from the move to peace talks could be mighty expensive if the idea once gets abroad that the U.S. won't stand by its commitments to its allies. The truly serious question is whether a nation as rich and vital as the U.S. can afford to do what the Trojans did when they shrunk from meeting the Greeks, or what the Carthaginians did when they sent their sons to Rome as peace hostages, or what the medieval Byzantine Empire did when it began ceding territory to the Turks. General Thomas Lane compares us to the Trojans, the Carthaginians, and the Byzantines, meaning that we are rich, fat, full of lassitude, and a tempting target for lean and hungry enemies.

Wall Streeters don't buy the relevance of General Lane's argument. They say that the Communists are also afflicted with the same problems that are hurting the capitalist nations. Red China is in turmoil. Red Russia can't prevent student riots in Poland or a purge of old-line Communists in Czechoslovakia. There is some substance to support the theory that communism is losing its own crusading zeal. But a clear victory for the Communists in Southeast Asia might act as a shot in the arm to revitalize the whole idea of Red expansion.

If Thailand and the Philippines and Japan can't look to the U.S. for protection, what then? Will we continue to have bull markets if Southeast Asia goes?

Miss Mary Wilder, local librarian, was elected a vice president of the Ohio Library Assn.

Leo Walter Dunlap, Route 7, was commissioned a second lieutenant, army reserves, and assigned to the veterinary corps.

Thirty-seven juniors, seniors and faculty members of Salt Creek Twp. School assembled at Ye Old Homestead for their annual Junior-Senior banquet.

Jack Pierce and his Texas Cowboys appeared in person at the Grand Theatre along with the regular picture program.

The Mecca Restaurant was broken into and money stolen — the fourth time in four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sowers assumed management of the Brown Rooming House, 114 W. Main St. Rates: $1.50 up per week or 50 cents per night.

Kroger's special — strawberries, two pints for 23 cents.

Milk from Circle City Dairy at 315 S. Pickaway St. — pints, four cents, quarts, six cents.

For eight Wallace Bread wrappers and 12 cents, you received a 25 cent ticket to the Grand Theater . . . Or eight wrappers and six cents, a 10 or 15 cent ticket.

Sunday dinner of roast chicken at Hanley's was advertised at 40 cents — fried chicken dinner was 50 cents.

A wealthy Bostonian had advertised for a chauffeur to drive him about for the summer months in the White Mountains, and when three men applied for the job, he shepherded them to the top of a cliff near his estate. "How close to the edge would you fellows calculate you could drive me safely?" he asked. The first applicant boasted, "Within six inches of the edge, sir, or my name isn't Allan Ullman." The second, more cautious, estimated six feet. The third, however, admitted candidly, "Mister, you couldn't get me to drive within a half mile of the place!" He got the job.

CAMPUS HUMOR:

From Alabama: The bridegroom was driving away from the church. The bridegroom clasped the bride to his bosom and whispered soulfully, "Now, what's all this jazz about you quitting your job?"

Five years ago when I first started the change of life I was told that I had a fibroid tumor of the womb about the size of a two month pregnancy. My change of life has now set in and I am not ill or uncomfortable. Will this fibroid disappear or will surgery be necessary?

Mrs. L.P.R., California Dear Mrs. R.: A fibroid tumor of the womb or uterus is not uncommon. A large one such as the one you describe may produce in some people pressure on the bladder or on the large intestine and cause symptoms of discomfort.

When once the diagnosis of a fibroid tumor is made it should be checked at regular intervals, perhaps every six months, to note if it is getting larger or smaller.

There are many kinds of fibroids which are benign or non-cancerous. Some originate on the surface of the womb, others on the muscle itself, and some on the inner lining. It is rare that a fibroid becomes malignant but it is wise to respect its presence and avoid neglecting it.

Physicians and surgeons are exceedingly conservative in their decision to operate and remove fibroids. When it is necessary it is sometimes possible to remove the fibroid tumor without removing the uterus itself. When surgeons decide that an operation is necessary they tell their patients about the possibilities that may exist and ask for permission to proceed according to their own well established judgment in the operating room.

One week after I had a flu shot I had a heart attack. In fact, as I recall it, I think I began to feel a heart spell coming over me the very next day. I have never been sick with heart trouble before and I feel that the flu shot set me off. Couldn't my doctor have known that the injection would cause me so much trouble?

Mr. O.C.H., California Dear Mr. H.: Let me emphatically state that there was no more relationship between the flu shot and your heart attack than if you had eaten a combination of chopped chicken livers and shrimp. Just the idea of mixing these two gives me a queasy feeling in my own stomach.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Sure, I wanted to win. But you don't go to the Academy Awards expecting to win. If you did, then you should take a pistol in your pocket so you can shoot your brains out if you lose."

Now that the Oscar fever has died down, Rod Steiger was able to achieve some perspective on the movie world's top prize. His award as best actor of 1967 for "In the Heat of the Night" brought him unmistakable joy, but it hasn't overwhelmed him.

"Maybe that's because of a mature judgment that comes with age," said Steiger, who turned 43 on Easter Sunday. "Maybe I was still thinking that I should have gotten the Oscar for 'The Pawnbroker.'"

Grateful as he is for "In the Heat of the Night," he still considers "The Pawnbroker" a greater challenge.

"It was the toughest role I ever attempted," said the actor. "After all, here was a man who spent most of his time trying to avoid communication with other people. He replied in monosyllables and wouldn't look at the person he was talking to. It was a real challenge to make the character interesting, not boring."

Steiger had to wait two years for his triumph; his role as the embittered victim of Nazi brutality was passed up by the academy for Lee Marvin's pertrayal of a drunken cowboy in "Cat Ballou."

The Oscar has its distinct advantages, aside from ego satisfaction, Steiger admitted. "The main thing is the selection of scripts," he said. "I'm now getting first chance at scripts that never would have been offered to me a year or two ago."

His current film is an example. He plays the title role in Warner Brothers-7 Arts' spectacle of Ray Bradbury's, "The Illustrated Man." It is Steiger's most strenuous role, requiring eight-hour sessions in the makeup department while his entire body is painted with tattoo-like figures.

Success stories are written when talent and opportunity converge. Steiger figures that happened for him when he played the television version of "Marty." Because of his performance, Elia Kazan selected him for "On the Waterfront," which won Steiger an academy nomination and launched his film career.

But for his own stubborn independence, Steiger might have received his Oscar earlier. He was sought for the film version of "Marty," but lost it because he refused to sign an exclusive contract with the producers. Ernest Borgnine won the role and an Oscar—and then spent a half-million dollars to extricate himself from his contract.

For some strange reason people always need an excuse for anything that happens to them. Whenever I catch a cold I am told immediately that it was because I didn't wear a scarf on "that windy night." The first thing that a person does when he has cramps in his abdomen is to call the other dinner guests from the night before and ask "Did you eat the strawberries?"

We probably do this because so many of us are under the misbelief that any illness comes to us as a form of punishment for something that we did or did not do.

Your doctor could not possibly have known that you would have a heart attack following your visit to him. That which he did know and I know is that the flu injection had, as I said before, absolutely no relationship with your illness.

The World Today

By BARRY SCHWEID (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just last May the Supreme Court made chop-chope of the idea that juvenile court judges are a sort of substitute parent, entitled to punish or condone as they see fit.

Juveniles accused of crime, the court said, are entitled to be judged by the same constitutional ground-rules as adults are.

"Neither the Bill of Rights nor the U.S. Constitution is for adults only," Justice Abe Fortas said then.

On Monday, however, the court turned around and assigned a parental role to the states in deciding what juveniles may read or see.

The 6-3 decision, written by Justice William J. Brennan Jr., amounts to a clear victory for the censors and an utter rout for civil libertarians. It puts government in the business of deciding what is moral and gives government the right to declare illegal what it finds immoral. Brennan's pronouncement for the court reaches this end by building on the proposition that "the well-being of its children is of course a subject within the state's constitutional power to regulate."

Since society and "constitutional interpretation" have recognized the authority of parents to direct the rearing of their children, the next step was that parents and teachers "are entitled to the support of law" designed to help them do the job.

All this means that states have a green light from the Supreme Court to suppress sales to minors of whatever books and magazines a majority of the legislators decide are too rich for young blood. The same problem holds true for movies, though the decision in a New York case wasn't explicit.

Since the same Supreme Court decided last term that "girlie" magazines can't be kept from adults, the result is two sets of rules, or what is called variable obscenity. The reach of the First Amendment depends on the age of the reader.

Once again, the subject of censorship fragmented the court, and the frayed nerves showed.

Justice Potter Stewart, who in some recent instances has taken a strong free-speech stand, voted with the majority, saying there was no need for "a doctrinaire, knee-jerk application of the First Amendment."

Some 35 states now have laws or provisions of laws designed to shield juveniles from sexy or violent reading matter or movies. Though the decision dealt only with New York's special law, apparently all the states have to do to pass the court's censorship test is to take a leaf out of New York's law books.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — It is clear from recent statements, including a passionate plea for fiscal responsibility by William McChesney Martin Jr. of the Federal Reserve, that the United States now faces financial problems as profound as any this century.

As a leading independent economist observed privately, "The problems are so dangerous, the consequences so grave, that there seems to be a tendency among Americans to hide from the disturbing realities."

These difficulties include the inability of the country to get its finances balanced, to combat inflation, to pay its international bills. In other words, to raise more tax revenue to pay bills and to cut spending so its bills won't continue to rise.

Martin, who is chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, seems to agree that the dangers are being ignored.

"The nation is in the midst of the worst financial crisis since 1931," he said last week, but Americans "show promise of dawdling over solutions."

Rudolph Peterson, president of the Bank of America, the nation's largest commercial bank, told the Economic Club of Detroit this week:

"The United States probably has no more than a few months to restore faith in our ability to manage our own affairs."

Detected in these statements, and hundreds more by the President, some congressmen, bankers, Cabinet officers, economists, businessmen and educators during the past two years, is a sense of horror.

The fact that it seems not to have registered in the minds of Americans results either from these men being unwilling or unable to speak more clearly or from the inability of the American consciousness to absorb painful news.

The present state of affairs, in which the American economy continues to be mismanaged, presents questions no less profound than these:

1. Can this republican form of government act in time to solve its financial problems? Or will a reduction in spending and increase in taxes be too much for elected officials to vote in an election year?

2. Can the nation live with prosperity? Or, having enjoyed such enormous success in the past decade, will Americans continue to ignore the warnings and, feeling invincible, disdain restraint and discipline and spend the country into a depression?

3. Can the New Economics, which calls for flexible spending and taxing to keep the economy moving smoothly, work at all if many congressmen are not willing to risk votes by advocating higher taxes?

The second question might seem to have an obvious answer. It doesn't. Prosperity is safe if it is paid for, but in the present mood, Americans demand expensive programs and goods and hope somehow to pay later.

The third problem involves serious considerations of presidential and congressional powers. Congress is unlikely to give President carte blanche to raise or lower taxes. But without it, the restraining of a runaway economy is nearly impossible.

The first question may sound academic, something to fill paper in a basic economics course, but it has a chilling immediacy. How can you cut spending when to do so might mean weakening the war machine or the output of welfare?

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Sure, I wanted to win. But you don't go to the Academy Awards expecting to win. If you did, then you should take a pistol in your pocket so you can shoot your brains out if you lose."

Now that the Oscar fever has died down, Rod Steiger was able to achieve some perspective on the movie world's top prize. His award as best actor of 1967 for "In the Heat of the Night" brought him unmistakable joy, but it hasn't overwhelmed him.

"Maybe that's because of a mature judgment that comes with age," said Steiger, who turned 43 on Easter Sunday. "Maybe I was still thinking that I should have gotten the Oscar for 'The Pawnbroker.'"

Grateful as he is for "In the Heat of the Night," he still considers "The Pawnbroker" a greater challenge.

"It was the toughest role I ever attempted," said the actor. "After all, here was a man who spent most of his time trying to avoid communication with other people. He replied in monosyllables and wouldn't look at the person he was talking to. It was a real challenge to make the character interesting, not boring."

Steiger had to wait two years for his triumph; his role as the embittered victim of Nazi brutality was passed up by the academy for Lee Marvin's pertrayal of a drunken cowboy in "Cat Ballou."

The Oscar has its distinct advantages, aside from ego satisfaction, Steiger admitted.

"The main thing is the selection of scripts," he said. "I'm now getting first chance at scripts that never would have been offered to me a year or two ago."

His current film is an example. He plays the title role in Warner Brothers-7 Arts' spectacle of Ray Bradbury's "The Illustrated Man." It is Steiger's most strenuous role, requiring eight-hour sessions in the make-up department while his entire body is painted with tattoo-like figures.

Success stories are written when talent and opportunity converge. Steiger figures that happened for him when he played the television version of "Marty." Because of his performance, Elia Kazan selected him for "On the Waterfront," which won Steiger an academy nomination and launched his film career.

But for his own stubborn independence, Steiger might have received his Oscar earlier. He was sought for the film version of "Marty," but lost it because he refused to sign an exclusive contract with the producers. Ernest Borgnine won the role and an Oscar—and then spent a half-million dollars to extricate himself from his contract.

County board of education members posted notice that salaries of teachers would be reduced. A minimum salary was also voted on and lowered. A resolution to set a maximum wage for township superintendents was defeated.

The first step in a strenuous effort to break up once and for all the nefarious practice of smoking marihuana, a poisonous Mexican weed, was taken when a city youth was seized and lodged in jail charged with possession of the "weed."

The first important step toward possible municipal ownership of its light and power plant was taken by city council when a resolution was approved to "employ an engineer to make a survey of the city of Circleville for building a municipal light and power plant."

Dear Abby: Stingy Husband Please Take Note!

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who is well thought of in this community. He is very generous when it comes to me and the children, but listen to this. He has a "thing" about tipping which embarrasses me to tears. He absolutely refuses to tip. And I mean he will not leave one thin dime anywhere. He says, "I run a business, and I don't expect the public to pay my help, so why should I go somewhere and pay somebody else's?" This goes for bellboy, taxi drivers, waitresses, etc.

I once slipped a dollar bill under my plate as we were leaving a fine restaurant, and my husband saw me and made me take it back. I walked out of there red-faced, but there was nothing I could do about it.

My husband says it's not the money, it's the principle of the thing. If I were to tell you what his income was last year, you would faint. What's the answer?

EMBARRASSED
DEAR ABBY: When people say, "It's not the money, it's the principle of the thing"—it's usually the money. Someone should tell your husband that most people who serve the public depend on tips to make ends meet.

Ideally, no one should have to rely on tips to make a decent living, and I for one would like to see all tipping abolished. But we have to deal with the system as it is—not as we'd like it to be.

DEAR ABBY: My 15-year-old daughter and I have been going around and around over the length of her skirts.

She has been told many times that she has nice legs and she has, but I say it doesn't matter how "nice" her legs are, there is a difference between what is decent and what is not, and I say a skirt that shows the leg right to the top of the thigh is indecent.

Of course she can't wear dresses like that to school because the authorities won't permit it, but she thinks what she wears outside of school should be up to her. I would like your opinion.

MRS. C.
DEAR MRS. C.: What she wears outside of school should be "up to her," providing it isn't "up to here."

DEAR ABBY: As a happily married, faithful husband of 16 years who has been strongly attracted to other women from time to time, I have a wife who loves her husband, but is attracted to other men.

Stop battling your emotions. Enjoy your daydreams. Then when your husband comes home from work, hug him and kiss him as if he just got back from the moon. You married each other to have loving affection when you need it. You need it now.

If he questions your sudden passion, tell him you've been reading ABBY's column, and realize how lucky you are to have him. Do this every day for a year (he won't question it after a week) and let me know the results.

Freeman Says Stamp Plan Cost Sky High

Comments After Hunger Report By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman says his department would need new power from Congress and billions of dollars to provide the food aid envisioned by a citizen group which reports some 10 million Americans are constantly hungry.

Freeman commented Tuesday following issuance of a report by a 25-member Citizens Board of Inquiry into Hunger and Nutrition.

The group recommended the Agriculture Department be stripped of responsibility for administering the food-stamp program, contending it is more concerned with assuring profits for farmers than with the plight of the poverty-stricken.

Freeman said he welcomed the citizens' group to what "has often been a lonely battle to eradicate hunger," adding that support for his department's efforts in this has been "in short supply over the past seven years." He became secretary in 1961.

"We would do even more if we had more money to do it with," Freeman said in a statement. He said the department reached its budget limit in the current fiscal year on extending food stamps. Persons in the program buy the food stamps and use them in grocery stores to buy food, paying a lower price, with the difference made up by the government.

The citizens' group recommended use of free food stamps rather than the discount stamps.

Communications Union Chief Sees Accord Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The leader of some 165,000 striking telephone workers has predicted that settlement of the week-old nationwide walkout may not be too far off.

"There is absolutely no doubt in my mind that the Communications Workers will have an overwhelming win, and in the not too distant future," said union President Joseph A. Beirne.

While there have been no formal wage negotiations since the strike began in some 40 states, Beirne said Tuesday informal talks with the Bell Telephone System were continuing.

Informed sources said negotiations were apparently trying to work out the broad outlines of a settlement that could be completed later in formal talks.

In New York, Patrick Morgan, chairman of the union's 25,000-member unit of telephone installers, met in what were described as informal, exploratory talks with J. F. Griggs, manager of labor relations for Western Electric Co.

The installers, highest-paid telephone workers at an average of $3.27 per hour, traditionally set the pattern for wage increases in the Bell Telephone System, of which Western Electric is a subsidiary.

Other Bell System workers average $2.79 per hour. In addition to the installers in most states, another 140,000 Bell operators, linemen, repairmen, clerks and other employees are on strike in 15 states where Bell contracts have also expired.

Additional thousands of Bell workers in many other states, whose contracts won't expire for a few more weeks, refused to cross installers' picket lines and joined the strike.

Beirne said the total added up to more than 200,000 workers. Company officials sent messages of congratulations to thousands of management personnel for filling the jobs of strikers and maintaining near normal telephone service despite the first nationwide walkout in 21 years.

Beirne granted permission for strikers to go back to work in a tornado-ravaged area around Falmouth, Ky., to help restore damaged telephone lines.

Japanese Sociologist Sees U.S. Race Relations Critical

TOKYO (AP)—"I can only conclude that race relations in America are at a critical turning point," a Japanese sociologist studying in Illinois has reported to Tokyo readers.

In a story in the Tokyo newspaper Asahi, Kenichi Tominaga asked: "Is there anything to do to temper the tension that exists between white liberals who with good will try to understand black people who assert that good will is deception?"

Tominaga, an assistant professor of sociology at Tokyo University, is doing research on management-labor relations at the University of Illinois. He reported on a memorial assembly at the university for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

After the assembly, he wrote, Negro students "jumped on the platform and started shouting and making speeches to the effect that the assembly was an epitome of deception and that the rapport between blacks and whites is, after all, a dream."

"There is no question," Tominaga added, "that white mourners detested the terrorist act of a killer—or killers—and admired the act and thought of the late civil rights leader. There was no deception in the sorrow and sympathy expressed by the whites."

"But the black students could in no way appreciate the sympathy, sorrow and shattered sentiments equally felt by the whites."

"There is in the psychological makeup of the Negro students a belief that whatever the white students and professors say and feel and think is simply a gesture of guilt-ridden sympathy and therefore a deception."

"I learned that although the blacks and whites seem to be integrated and seem to have established a line of communication on the campus, they are poles apart if, agitated by a tragic stroke of events, they meet as a group," Tominaga said.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

A cold front swept across Ohio Tuesday evening setting off tornadoes and severe thunderstorms in many areas. Rain-fall amounts were variable, from .1 inch or less in many areas up to nearly an inch in the Cleveland-Akron area.

A vigorous low pressure system was centered this morning over Lake Superior. Brisk winds sweeping around this low center were bringing noticeably cooler air over Ohio. Early morning temperature readings were in the 40s across the state. Afternoon readings today were expected to reach into the 50s.

As the low center moves northeastward into Canada, skies will clear this evening with the cool weather continuing into Thursday. A gradual warming trend is expected to set in late in the week.

FORECASTS
OHIO — Clearing and cooler tonight, lows in 30s. Thursday fair and cool.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Clearing and cooler tonight, lows mid 30s. Thursday fair and cool.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Stingy Husband Please Take Note!

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who is well thought of in this community. He is very generous when it comes to me and the children, but listen to this. He has a "thing" about tipping which embarrasses me to tears. He absolutely refuses to tip. And I mean he will not leave one thin dime anywhere. He says, "I run a business, and I don't expect the public to pay my help, so why should I go somewhere and pay somebody else's?" This goes for bellboy, taxi drivers, waitresses, etc.

I once slipped a dollar bill under my plate as we were leaving a fine restaurant, and my husband saw me and made me take it back. I walked out of there red-faced, but there was nothing I could do about it.

My husband says it's not the money, it's the principle of the thing. If I were to tell you what his income was last year, you would faint. What's the answer?

DEAR ABBY: When people say, "it's not the money, it's the principle of the thing"—it's usually the money. Someone should tell your husband that most people who serve the public depend on tips to make ends meet.

Ideally, no one should have to rely on tips to make a decent living, and I for one would like to see all tipping abolished. But we have to deal with the system as it is—not as we'd like it to be.

DEAR ABBY: My 15-year-old daughter and I have been going around and around over the length of her skirts.

She has been told many times that she has nice legs and she has, but I say it doesn't matter how "nice" her legs are, there is a difference between what is decent and what is not, and I say a skirt that shows the leg right to the top of the thigh is indecent.

Of course she can't wear dresses like that to school because the authorities won't permit it, but she thinks what she wears outside of school should be up to her. I would like your opinion.

MRS. C. DEAR MRS. C.: What she wears outside of school should be "up to her," providing it isn't "up to here."

DEAR ABBY: As a happily married, faithful husband of 16 years who has been strongly attracted to other women from time to time, I have a wife who loves her husband, but is attracted to other men.

Stop battling your emotions. Enjoy your daydreams. Then when your husband comes home from work, hug him and kiss him as if he just got back from the moon. You married each other to have loving affection when you need it. You need it now.

If he questions your sudden passion, tell him you've been reading ABBY's column, and realize how lucky you are to have him. Do this every day for a year (he won't question it after a week) and let me know the results.

HAPPY PAPPY Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Freeman Says Stamp Plan Cost Sky High

Comments After Hunger Report By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman says his department would need new power from Congress and billions of dollars to provide the food aid envisioned by a citizen group which reports some 10 million Americans are constantly hungry.

Freeman commented Tuesday following issuance of a report by a 25-member Citizens Board of Inquiry into Hunger and Nutrition.

The group recommended the Agriculture Department be stripped of responsibility for administering the food-stamp program, contending it is more concerned with assuring profits for farmers than with the plight of the poverty-stricken.

Freeman said he welcomed the citizens' group to what "has often been a lonely battle to eradicate hunger," adding that support for his department's efforts in this has been "in short supply over the past seven years." He became secretary in 1961.

"We would do even more if we had more money to do it with," Freeman said in a statement. He said the department reached its budget limit in the current fiscal year on extending food stamps. Persons in the program buy the food stamps and use them in grocery stores to buy food, paying a lower price, with the difference made up by the government.

The citizens' group recommended use of free food stamps rather than the discount stamps.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

A cold front swept across Ohio Tuesday evening setting off tornadoes and severe thunderstorms in many areas. Rainfall amounts were variable, from 1 inch or less in many areas up to nearly an inch in the Cleveland-Akron area.

A vigorous low pressure system was centered this morning over Lake Superior. Brisk winds sweeping around this low center were bringing noticeably cooler air over Ohio. Early morning temperature readings were in the 40s across the state. Afternoon readings today were expected to reach into the 50s.

As the low center moves north-eastward into Canada, skies will clear this evening with the cool weather continuing into Thursday. A gradual warming trend is expected to set in late in the week.

FORECASTS OHIO — Clearing and cooler tonight, lows in 30s. Thursday fair and cool.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Clearing and cooler tonight, lows mid 30s. Thursday fair and cool.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Clearing and cooler tonight, lows mid 30s. Thursday fair and cool.

SOUTHEAST OHIO Clearing and cooler tonight, lows mid and upper 30s. Thursday fair and cool.

CENTRAL OHIO — Clearing and cooler tonight, lows mid 30s. Thursday fair and cool.

Ravenna Arsenal May Be Reopened

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Clark Clifford may decide within a week whether to reopen the Ravenna, Ohio, Arsenal for production of ammunition for the Vietnam war, Rep. J. William Stanton, R-Ohio, says.

He told a reporter his information came from private sources and said he knew nothing official about the matter.

Among cities planning or building their first subway systems are San Francisco, Prague, Brussels, Montreal, Turin, Venice, Rio de Janeiro, Melbourne, Rotterdam and Santiago, Chile.

Communications Union Chief Sees Accord Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The leader of some 165,000 striking telephone workers has predicted that settlement of the week-old nationwide walkout may not be too far off.

"There is absolutely no doubt in my mind that the Communications Workers will have an overwhelming win, and in the not too distant future," said union President Joseph A. Beirne.

While there have been no formal wage negotiations since the strike began in some 40 states, Beirne said Tuesday informal talks with the Bell Telephone System were continuing.

Informed sources said negotiators were apparently trying to work out the broad outlines of a settlement that could be completed later in formal talks.

In New York, Patrick Morgan, chairman of the union's 23,000-member unit of telephone installers, met in what were described as informal, exploratory talks with J. F. Griggs, manager of labor relations for Western Electric Co.

The installers, highest-paid telephone workers at an average of $3.27 per hour, traditionally set the pattern for wage increases in the Bell Telephone System, of which Western Electric is a subsidiary.

Other Bell System workers average $2.79 per hour. In addition to the installers in most states, another 140,000 Bell operators, linemen, repairmen, clerks and other employees are on strike in 15 states where Bell contracts have also expired.

Additional thousands of Bell workers in many other states, whose contracts won't expire for a few more weeks, refused to cross installers' picket lines and joined the strike.

Beirne said the total added up to more than 200,000 workers. Company officials sent messages of congratulations to thousands of management personnel for filling the jobs of strikers and maintaining near normal telephone service despite the first nationwide walkout in 21 years.

Beirne granted permission for strikers to go back to work in a tornado ravaged area around Falmouth, Ky., to help restore damaged telephone lines.

Japanese Sociologist Sees U.S. Race Relations Critical

TOKYO (AP)—"I can only conclude that race relations in America are at a critical turning point," a Japanese sociologist studying in Illinois has reported to Tokyo readers.

In a story in the Tokyo newspaper Asahi, Kenichi Tominaga asked: "Is there anything to do to temper the tension that exists between white liberals who with good will try to understand black people who assert that good will is deception?"

Tominaga, an assistant professor of sociology at Tokyo University, is doing research on management-labor relations at the University of Illinois. He reported on a memorial assembly at the university for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

After the assembly, he wrote, Negro students "jumped on the platform and started shouting and making speeches to the effect that the assembly was an epitome of deception and that the rapport between blacks and whites is, after all, a dream.

"There is no question," Tominaga added, "that white mourners detested the terrorist act of a killer—or killers—and admired the act and thought of the late civil rights leader. There was no deception in the sorrow and sympathy expressed by the whites."

"But the black students could in no way appreciate the sympathy, sorrow and shattered sentiments equally felt by the whites."

"There is in the psychological makeup of the Negro students a belief that whatever the white students and professors say and feel and think is simply a gesture of guilt-ridden sympathy and therefore a deception."

"I learned that although the blacks and whites seem to be integrated and seem to have established a line of communication on the campus, they are poles apart if, agitated by a tragic stroke of events, they meet as a group," Tominaga said.

The Virginia Kuhns award was presented to Paula Henke for a painting of her daughter "Jill" and Don Crusie received the Harry Montelius award for a water color "The Barn."

Bruce Sodervick, art professor at OUC was the judge. The public is invited to view the exhibit until May 1.

Approve Watson For Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — W. Marvin Watson, White House appointments secretary and a long-time political aide to President Johnson, has won unopposed Senate confirmation as postmaster general.

Watson, a 44-year-old Texan, succeeds Lawrence F. O'Brien, who resigned from the Cabinet to aid Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Senate approved Johnson's nomination of Watson Tuesday following a hearing by the Post Office Committee.

Site Is Changed

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The Miss International beauty contest, usually held in Long Beach, will be held this October in Tokyo. The city council, finding the pageant would be in financial difficulty if held here, authorized the change in sites Tuesday.

The 6-cent stamp with the picture of the White House on it was inspired by the cover of the official White House guidebook.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Where the Girls Are," NBC's special Tuesday night, was an excellent example of the current vogue in TV variety. It consisted of some interesting music, uninhibited camera work, and lots of color and sight gags.

Much of the time the musical numbers were accompanied by camera work that made them look like those soft drink commercials aimed at the fun-loving teens. And, most of the time, the comedy looked like bits and pieces left over from Monday night's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-in." As a matter of fact, Dick Martin turned out for one gag. He played a duck hunter who took a shot skyward and was rewarded by a rain of shotguns—that's a sight-gag, Daphne, and it's a good thing it's rerun time because the stockpile of items like that is getting low.

Noel Harrison, who has a pleasant way with a song, was the show's host. He was particularly attractive in the number "Gentle on My Mind." Don Adams was around in his secret agent role, which is getting to be a bit tedious. And there was Cher who as everybody knows is Sonny's wife. She had a couple of songs as did Barbara McNair, and two groups, the Byrds and The Association.

Later CBS showed an unusual biographical film, "The Weapons of Gordon Parks," a rather introspective study of and by a Negro who is a superb photographer and an articulate philosopher.

The film started by showing Parks typing, while his voice told in words that were almost poetry, of his emotions and observations while witnessing the execution of a man in a gas chamber.

The most moving portion of the program came when Parks recalled the poverty he found in Brazil and told of finding there a boy, Flavio, dying of disease and malnutrition. Memorable photographs of the boy and his family were shown, including the famous closeup of the child, a tear glistening on his cheek.

Army Prevents Publication Of Negro-Guard Survey

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has prevented publication of results of a $60,000 survey aimed at determining the attitudes of young Negroes toward military service and the National Guard.

National Guard officials, who commissioned the nationwide survey last year after criticism that the Guard had too few Negroes in its ranks, were ready to release its findings more than a week ago.

But Army authorities ordered them not to do so and directed that the report be stamped "for official use only."

Sources said certain top Army civilian officials apparently felt that releasing the survey as it might seem to point the finger at Negroes, since whites were not questioned in the survey.

Other sources said the survey turned up no appreciable Negro animosity against the Guard, but indicated a lack of awareness of it.

Asked for a copy of the report or a summary of its findings, the Army said: "The Army staff presently is studying a paper prepared by the National Guard Bureau with the assistance of a nongovernment research organization addressing public attitudes toward military service and the Guard.

"The paper is for official use only and not releasable to the public at this time because it is an internal communication."

The National Guard was strongly criticized on the question of Negro participation by both the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders and Cyrus R. Vance, who represented President Johnson in Detroit during the riot there last summer.

Both urged immediate steps to increase recruitment of Negroes.

There are some indications the report, or a version of it, may eventually be made public, possibly with some explanatory statement aimed at showing why just Negroes, and not whites, also, were surveyed.

Logan Elm FHA Sends Members To State Meet

Annual state convention of the Future Homemakers of America will be held Friday and Saturday at Veteran's Memorial Auditorium, Columbus.

Attending from Logan Elm Chapter will be Deanna Hoffman, Lynn Fraunfelder, Nadine Hinton, Nancy May, Anne Goode, Sharon Noble and Nancy Eaken.

Lynn Fraunfelder will participate in the convention as a member of the state chorus. Deanna Hoffman, Sharon Noble and Anne Goode will be voting delegates in the elections of 1968-69 state officers.

The theme for the meeting is "FHA Stars Your Family and You." Throughout the meeting the project, "Good Family Relations Through Communications" will be emphasized.

The keynote address will be presented on Saturday morning by Dr. L. Clair Warden, minister of the King Ave., Methodist Church. Saturday's highlight will be the election and installation of officers.

The girls will be accompanied to Columbus by their adviser, Mrs. James Sampson and the chapter mother, Mrs. Francis Fraunfelder.

Girl To Be Math Instructor At MSU; She Will Be 16

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Edith Stern, who entered college at the age of 13, has been accepted as a math instructor at Michigan State University. She now is 15.

The teen-ager, who has been called genius since the age of two, chose a graduate assistantship in the math department at Michigan State over offers from "six or seven other very fine schools," said her father, Aaron.

Edith graduates from Florida Atlantic University in August, celebrates her 16th birthday a few days later and then heads for East Lansing in September.

According to the university, Edith will deliver two-hour algebra lectures twice a week, act as consultant to students and grade tests in addition to taking three graduate courses.

"I hope I'll be able to finish up on my P.H.D. in two years," she said.

"This is a gigantic step she is taking," her father said. "Michigan State has one other genius who has attracted just as much attention as she has and he will undoubtedly be a new challenge to her."

"It will be interesting; it'll certainly be different," Edith said when she learned that one of her classmates will be Michael Grost, 14-year-old senior in advance mathematics. Grost was admitted to Michigan State at 12.

The Brooklyn-born coed's i.q. has been tested at anywhere from 154 to 201 depending on the test used. Dr. John Hocking, director of graduate admissions at MSU who approved the admission of both young scholars, said Grost's intelligence has defied the best attempts to measure it.

Edith learned to read at two, played chess at four, dropped out of junior high school at 12 and was admitted to college at 13.

Except during discussions of the fall of the Roman Empire, Freud or trigonometry, Edith appears to be a normal, teenage girl.

Child Study Patron League Studies Japan

Members and guests of the Child Study Patron League traveled to Westerville to learn more about the way of Japanese home life.

They visited the Usa Jinja Shinto Shrine and the Kyoto Tea House. Mrs. Henderson told about family life as she found it during her stay when she and her family lived in a Japanese household.

The group sat on the floor on cushions around small tables in the fashion of Japan. They toured the other rooms of the tea house and were served green tea and light refreshments.

Local Artists Awarded Prizes In Chillicothe

At the Chillicothe Art League exhibit now showing at Bennet Hall on the Ohio University Campus in Chillicothe, three local artists received prizes.

Mrs. Otis Runyan won first and second places in mixed media for "Landscape" and a collage, "The Fireman." Miss Ruth Montelius was awarded first place in a drawing titled "Jill."

Virginia Faunce Kuhns won first and second place awards in pastel for "The Kettle" and "Poppies" and third place in oils for "When The Chips Are Down."

The Virginia Kuhns award was presented to Paula Henke for a painting of her daughter "Jill" and Don Crusie received the Harry Montelius award for a water color "The Barn."

Bruce Soderwick, art professor at OUC was the judge. The public is invited to view the exhibit until May 1.

Approve Watson For Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — W. Marvin Watson, White House appointments secretary and a long-time political aide to President Johnson, has won unopposed Senate confirmation as postmaster general.

Watson, a 44-year-old Texan, succeeds Lawrence F. O'Brien, who resigned from the Cabinet to aid Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Senate approved Johnson's nomination of Watson Tuesday following a hearing by the Post Office Committee.

Site Is Changed

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The Miss International beauty contest, usually held in Long Beach, will be held this October in Tokyo. The city council, finding the pageant would be in financial difficulty if held here, authorized the change in sites Tuesday.

The 6-cent stamp with the picture of the White House on it was inspired by the cover of the official White House guidebook.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Where the Girls Are," NBC's special Tuesday night, was an excellent example of the current vogue in TV variety. It consisted of some interesting music, uninhibited camera work, and lots of color and sight gags.

Much of the time the musical numbers were accompanied by camera work that made them look like those soft drink commercials aimed at the fun-loving teens. And, most of the time, the comedy looked like bits and pieces left over from Monday night's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-in." As a matter of fact, Dick Martin turned out for one gag. He played a duck hunter who took a shot skyward and was rewarded by a rain of shotguns—that's a sight-gag, Daphne, and it's a good thing it's rerun time because the stockpile of items like that is getting low.

Noel Harrison, who has a pleasant way with a song, was the show's host. He was particularly attractive in the number "Gentle on My Mind." Don Adams was around in his secret agent role, which is getting to be a bit tedious. And there was Cher who as everybody knows is Sonny's wife. She had a couple of songs as did Barbara McNair, and two groups, the Byrds and The Association.

Later CBS showed an unusual biographical film, "The Weapons of Gordon Parks," a rather introspective study of and by a Negro who is a superb photographer and an articulate philosopher.

The film started by showing Parks typing, while his voice told in words that were almost poetry, of his emotions and observations while witnessing the execution of a man in a gas chamber.

The most moving portion of the program came when Parks recalled the poverty he found in Brazil and told of finding there a boy, Flavio, dying of disease and malnutrition. Memorable photographs of the boy and his family were shown, including the famous closeup of the child, a tear glistening on his cheek.

Army Prevents Publication Of Negro-Guard Survey

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has prevented publication of results of a $60,000 survey aimed at determining the attitudes of young Negroes toward military service and the National Guard.

National Guard officials, who commissioned the nationwide survey last year after criticism that the Guard had too few Negroes in its ranks, were ready to release its findings more than a week ago.

But Army authorities ordered them not to do so and directed that the report be stamped "for official use only."

Sources said certain top Army officials apparently felt that releasing the survey as it might seem to point the finger at Negroes, since whites were not questioned in the survey.

Other sources said the survey turned up no appreciable Negro animosity against the Guard, but indicated a lack of awareness of it.

Asked for a copy of the report or a summary of its findings, the Army said: "The Army staff presently is studying a paper prepared by the National Guard Bureau with the assistance of a nongovernment research organization addressing public attitudes toward military service and the Guard.

"The paper is for official use only and not releasable to the public at this time because it is an internal communication."

The National Guard was strongly criticized on the question of Negro participation by both the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders and Cyrus R. Vance, who represented President Johnson in Detroit during the riot there last summer.

Both urged immediate steps to increase recruitment of Negroes.

There are some indications the report, or a version of it, may eventually be made public, possibly with some explanatory statement aimed at showing why just Negroes, and not whites, also, were surveyed.

Logan Elm FHA Sends Members To State Meet

Annual state convention of the Future Homemakers of America will be held Friday and Saturday at Veterans Memorial Auditorium, Columbus.

Attending from Logan Elm Chapter will be Deanna Hoffman, Lynn Fraunfelter, Nadine Hinton, Nancy May, Anne Goode, Sharon Noble and Nancy Eaken.

Lynn Fraunfelter will participate in the convention as a member of the state chorus. Deanna Hoffman, Sharon Noble and Anne Goode will be voting delegates in the elections of 1968-69 state officers.

The theme for the meeting is "FHA Stars Your Family and You." Throughout the meeting the project, "Good Family Relations Through Communications" will be emphasized.

The keynote address will be presented on Saturday morning by Dr. L. Clair Warden, minister of the King Ave., Methodist Church. Saturday's highlight will be the election and installation of officers.

The girls will be accompanied to Columbus by their adviser, Mrs. James Sampson and the chapter mother, Mrs. Francis Fraunfelter.

Teddy To Speak To Ohio Democrats

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., will speak in Columbus June 8 at a meeting of Democratic legislative candidates.

House Minority Leader John McDonald of Newark said the senator will be featured speaker at a noon luncheon on the second day of a seminar.

Stewardship Week Slated May 19-26

The week of May 19 to 26 has been designated as Soil Stewardship Week according to David Bolender, chairman of the Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation District.

The theme this year, "A Time for Initiative" is very appropriate, according to Bolender. "The time has come when our society must take the initiative to improve our environment. Over the years, we have tended to neglect and misuse our surroundings, so the quality of our environment has become a matter of increasing concern," Bolender said.

Bolender urges all individuals, churches, clubs and organizations to support Soil Stewardship Week.

The local office of Soil and Water Conservation has mailed soil stewardship material to each minister in the county and made available Church bulletins or bulletin inserts to the following:

Circleville First Methodist Church, Emmett Chapel Methodist, Hedges Chapel Methodist, Circleville First EUB Church, Calvary EUB Church, Laurelvale EUB Church, East Ringgold EUB Church, Stoutsville EUB Church, Circleville First Church of Christ in Christian Union, Jefferson Church of Christ in Christian Union, Presbyterian Church, Lutheran Church, Atlanta Methodist, New Holland Methodist, Derby-Five Points Chg.

Material is available at the local office at 1440 N. Court Street on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Three of the local restaurants have also ordered place mats for use during Soil Stewardship Week: Noel's King Boy South, Noel's King Boy East and the L-K Restaurant.

3 More Ohioans Killed in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two soldiers and a Marine are the latest Ohio servicemen reported killed in the Vietnam war.

The Defense Department listed them as Army Pfc. Larry A. Widener, Youngstown, whose status changed from missing to dead of hostile causes; Army Pfc. Curtis R. Riley, Batavia, and Marine Sgt. Leo F. Malone, husband of Mary Lou Malone, 670 S. Washington St., Van Wert.

Fairborn Man Held in Arson

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The FBI has charged a 20-year-old bowling alley employee with destruction of government property in connection with a $150,000 fire at a bowling alley.

The FBI listed the man as James William Wilson of Fairborn, a civilian employee at the bowling lanes at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. The lanes burned April 16 and the FBI said Wilson was working there at the time.

Derby News

Mrs. Georgia Sweet — 869-2462

The community was saddened to hear of the death of Miss Nell Ridgway who passed away last Wednesday at her home.

Sympathy is extended by friends and neighbors to her sisters, Sarah and Hazel, brother Eldon, and other relatives. Miss Ridgway spent her entire life as a resident of Derby. She always took an active interest in community affairs, including her church, the Garden Club, the WSCS and always enjoyed greatly helping to plan the annual Silver Tea which was to be held on Saturday, April 20. We have indeed lost one of our most revered citizens.

The annual Silver Tea, has been postponed till Saturday May 4.

Birthday greetings go to Mrs. Betsy Furniss on April 22, Rose Adene Hoffman on April 24.

Savings Bond Promotion Scheduled

Citizens of Pickaway County will join with the entire nation in the observance of "Share-in-Freedom Week" beginning here on Sunday.

Purpose will be to acquaint more people with United States Savings Bonds and the companion Freedom Shares.

Kenneth F. Fosnaugh, chairman of the Pickaway County Savings Bond Committee and vice president and cashier, Third National Bank, said that newspapers, radio stations, business firms and financial institutions had joined in the effort to bring greater awareness of the advantages of this savings device.

More than half of the population is too young to remember the Bond Drives of World War II," Fosnaugh said. "Therefore, most of today's bond buyers are people who acquired the habit back in the early '40's as a patriotic gesture, then discovered it was a mighty easy and convenient way to save regularly. Surprisingly enough," he added, "about 13 per cent of those war bonds have never been cashed, but are still earning interest for their owners."

Fosnaugh pointed out that the current Series E Bond is better than ever, paying the higher 4.15 per cent interest and maturing in only seven years.

Urge Primary Vote Flood for Lausche

EATON, Ohio (AP) — President Fred J. Miligan of Ohio Information Committee says voters who usually vote only in November can assure Sen. Frank J. Lausche's nomination for a third term by voting in the May 7 primary.

Miligan said in remarks to a civic club here that Ohioans know Lausche, a Democrat, "as an independent, because he is an independent, they have elected him governor five times and U.S. senator twice.

The Freedom Shares, offered as a bonus to regular bond buyers, pay 4.7 per cent interest and mature in four and a half years.

Increasing numbers of young parents, the County Chairman said, are saving for their children's college education through regular bond buying. By having bonds issued in the child's name, he added, the Federal income tax liability becomes that of the child, resulting usually in little or no tax due on the accrued interest.

Stewardship Week Slated May 19-26

The week of May 19 to 26 has been designated as Soil Stewardship Week according to David Bolender, chairman of the Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation District.

The theme this year, "A Time for Initiative" is very appropriate, according to Bolender. "The time has come when our society must take the initiative to improve our environment. Over the years, we have tended to neglect and misuse our surroundings, so the quality of our environment has become a matter of increasing concern," Bolender said.

Bolender urges all individuals, churches, clubs and organizations to support Soil Stewardship Week.

The local office of Soil and Water Conservation has mailed soil stewardship material to each minister in the county and made available Church bulletins or bulletin inserts to the following:

Circleville First Methodist Church, Emmett Chapel Methodist, Hedges Chapel Methodist, Circleville First EUB Church, Calvary EUB Church, Laurelville EUB Church, East Ringold EUB Church, Stoutsville EUB Church, Circleville First Church of Christ in Christian Union, Jefferson Church of Christ in Christian Union, Presbyterian Church, Lutheran Church, Atlanta Methodist, New Holland Methodist, Derby-Five Points Chg.

Material is available at the local office at 1440 N. Court Street on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Three of the local restaurants have also ordered place mats for use during Soil Stewardship Week: Noel's King Boy South, Noel's King Boy East and the L-K Restaurant.

3 More Ohioans Killed in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two soldiers and a Marine are the latest Ohio servicemen reported killed in the Vietnam war.

The Defense Department listed them as Army Pfc. Larry A. Widener, Youngstown, whose status changed from missing to dead of hostile causes; Army Pfc. Curtis R. Riley, Batavia, and Marine Sgt. Leo F. Malone, husband of Mary Lou Malone, 670 S. Washington St., Van Wert.

Fairborn Man Held in Arson

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The FBI has charged a 20-year-old bowling alley employee with destruction of government property in connection with a $150,000 fire at a bowling alley.

The FBI listed the man as James William Wilson of Fairborn, a civilian employee at the bowling lanes at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. The lanes burned April 16 and the FBI said Wilson was working there at the time.

Derby News

Mrs. Georgia Sweet — 869-2462

The community was saddened to hear of the death of Miss Nell Ridgway who passed away last Wednesday at her home.

Sympathy is extended by friends and neighbors to her sisters, Sarah and Hazel, brother Eldon, and other relatives. Miss Ridgway spent her entire life as a resident of Derby. She always took an active interest in community affairs, including her church, the Garden Club, the WSCS and always enjoyed greatly helping to plan the annual Silver Tea which was to be held on Saturday, April 20. We have indeed lost one of our most revered citizens.

The annual Silver Tea, has been postponed till Saturday May 4.

Birthday greetings go to Mrs. Betsy Furniss on April 22, Rose Adene Hoffman on April 24.

New Postmaster

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson Tuesday sent the postmaster nomination of Edolo F. Theodore, of Hopedale, Ohio, to the Senate.

Savings Bond Promotion Scheduled

Citizens of Pickaway County will join with the entire nation in the observance of "Share-in-Freedom Week" beginning here on Sunday.

Purpose will be to acquaint more people with United States Savings Bonds and the companion Freedom Shares.

Kenneth F. Fosnaugh, chairman of the Pickaway County Savings Bond Committee and vice president and cashier, Third National Bank, said that newspapers, radio stations, business firms and financial institutions had joined in the effort to bring greater awareness of the advantages of this savings device.

More than half of the population is too young to remember the Bond Drives of World War II," Fosnaugh said. "Therefore, most of today's bond buyers are people who acquired the habit back in the early '40's as a patriotic gesture, then discovered it was a mighty easy and convenient way to save regularly. Surprisingly enough," he added, "about 13 per cent of those war bonds have never been cashed, but are still earning interest for their owners."

Fosnaugh pointed out that the current Series E Bond is better than ever, paying the higher 4.15 per cent interest and maturing in only seven years.

Urge Primary Vote Flood for Lausche

EATON, Ohio (AP) — President Fred J. Milligan of Ohio Information Committee says voters who usually vote only in November can assure Sen. Frank J. Lausche's nomination for a third term by voting in the May 7 primary.

Milligan said in remarks to a civic club here that Ohioans know Lausche, a Democrat, "as an independent and because he is an independent, they have elected him governor five times and U.S. senator twice.

The Freedom Shares, offered as a bonus to regular bond buyers, pay 4.7 per cent interest and mature in four and a half years.

Increasing numbers of young parents, the County Chairman said, are saving for their children's college education through regular bond buying. By having bonds issued in the child's name, he added, the Federal income tax liability becomes that of the child, resulting usually in little or no tax due on the accrued interest.

'Civilian Cops' Often Fill Important Police Posts

By HENRIETTA LEITH
Associated Press Writer

In the old Wild West days, the sheriff pinned the star on a by-stander and made him a deputy. Since the by-stander already was equipped with gun and horse, he could easily fit into the new role and take off after the cattle rustlers.

Today, many large city police forces are coming full circle. They figuratively are pinning the deputy's star on thousands of civilians—men and women, young and old, from corporation executives to college boys—to do police work full-time or part-time.

The object is to free more trained policemen to patrol the crime-ridden, often riot-troubled city streets.

Los Angeles has more than 30 gray-uniformed civilians directing traffic at street corners and hopes to replace eventually all "fixed post" policemen with civilians. Already more than 22 per cent of the police department in the California city is civilians.

Columbus, Ohio, has civilians driving the wreckers that tow away illegally parked cars and uses persons who couldn't physically qualify as policemen—including the handicapped—to check parking meters and write tickets.

New York City's 28,000-man police force is augmented by nearly 4,900 paid civilian employees, including 223 "meter maids," and another 2,200 auxiliary policemen who are unsalaried.

The 12,000 regular policemen of Chicago are freed for crime-fighting by more than 1,200 civilian clerical workers, 1,300 women crossing guards, and 264 teen-aged police cadets.

Across the nation, civilians, in uniform or mufti, paid or unpaid, are doing fingerprinting, cooking, working as mechanics in motor pools, keeping records, serving as desk officers, handling traffic at parades, athletic events and conventions, skin diving for bodies, manning radio networks and telephone switchboards, working in laboratories, chauffeuring officials, even acting as technicians at the scene of the crime.

The posse concept, revived in many cities as a reaction to riots or rash of burglaries and rapes, is frequently more popular with the civilian population than with police officials.

But officials in Maricopa County, Ariz., in which the city of Phoenix rises out of the desert where mounted posses kicked up clouds of dust in the old days, still love posses.

Wives To Get Flight Discount

HONOLULU (AP) — Wives of wounded servicemen may soon fly to Honolulu from the mainland for $35 less than at present.

The Military Bureau of the Air Transport Command has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for the discount.

The discount is available for family members of servicemen coming here from Vietnam on rest and recuperation leave.

A wounded helicopter pilot at Tripler Army hospital here complained recently that his wife couldn't get a discount because he was wounded seven days before he was due in Honolulu on leave.

Sealed bids will be received by the Division of Water, of the City of Circleville, State of Ohio at 114 W. Franklin St., until 12 o'clock noon on Wednesday, 1 May 1968 for the following:

One New, 1968 Model 1/2 ton pick-up truck in accordance with specifications on file in the office of the Manager of Public Utilities.

Each and every bid must contain the full name of every person, or company interested in the same and be accompanied by a bond with an approved surety company, in the sum of $100.00, or a certified check on some solvent bank, drawn and made payable to the City of Circleville, Ohio, as a guaranty that if any bid is accepted a contract will be entered into and its performance secured in the proper manner. Should any bid be rejected such bond or check will be returned to the bidder, and should any bid be accepted such bond or check will be returned to the bidder upon proper execution and securing of the contract. The successful bidder, if any, will be required to execute the contract within 10 days after the award of the same to him. In case of failure to execute the contract as stated the bidder will be considered to have abandoned the contract, and the bond or check accompanying the bid shall be forfeited to the City.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

By authority of Council of the City of Circleville, Ohio, dated 5th day of April 1968.

Only a lawful society can build a better society

This Ad sponsored by the PICKAWAY COUNTY
BAR ASSOCIATION

In addition to six mounted posses—which now do only such work as search and rescue and crowd control—the county has a jeep posse, a range posse, a water safety posse, an air posse, a divers' posse and a parachute posse.

Most of the posse members are businessmen, some retired. The parachute posse is composed of a half-dozen doctors with parachute training.

One police chief who admits to "mixed emotions" about civilian posses is Bob Chewing of Orlando, Fla. When a newspaper sponsored a "Pistol-Packing Posse" of women frightened by a series of rape cases, thousands of women brought their guns to the police for instruction in how to use them.

Chewing said not only did this take up the precious time of police officers, but many of the guns, brought in by women from 18 to 80, would have exploded if they had tried to fire them.

Another who is leery of the posse is Denver's new police chief, George Seaton. He thinks his city, in spite of its cattle rustling and posse-riding history, can do without such civilian aid. But he makes a clear distinction between posses and the 75-man police auxiliary, serving without pay on traffic and crowd control duties, with its own radio network tied in with that of the police.

These men, he said, are just good citizens, and "the mayor and I are hopeful we can do something for them financially before too long."

Members of the mounted posse of Franklin County, Ohio, furnish their own horses, the dress uniforms they wear in parades, and the work uniforms they wear when helping police handle riots, strikes and man-

The Concerned Citizens of Harrisburg, Pa., patrolled their streets nightly with notepads and pencils, jotting down notes

on suspicious persons and license numbers of suspicious cars, for several weeks last December, and there was a noticeable drop in crime.

Kansas City gives awards to citizens who report suspicious incidents or come to the aid of the police in catching criminals and San Francisco enlists the aid of amateur detectives by distributing thousands of leaflets on which to write down descriptions of suspicious persons or autos to be passed on to the police.

Police officials are almost universally grateful for aid from the civilian population, so long as it doesn't take the law into its own hands.

Quinn Tamm, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, thinks there is "a definite place for civilians in police forces." He says the association advises police departments to get their officers "out from behind the desks and onto the streets."

Kansas City's police chief, Clarence M. Kelley, applauds

citizen cooperation, saying there are just not enough policemen "to do the job alone."

But Police Chief Harold Breier of Milwaukee maintains a "no help wanted" policy. He doesn't even want meter maids. "Only a fully and completely trained police officer," he says, "can do the job."

And Drom Brame, mayor of Seattle, agrees.

"It is difficult enough," he says, "to get trained, mature police officers to use calm judgment in emergencies, much less inexperienced civilians."

'Civilian Cops' Often Fill Important Police Posts

By HENRIETTA LEITH
Associated Press Writer

In the old Wild West days, the sheriff pinned the star on a by-stander and made him a deputy. Since the by-stander already was equipped with gun and horse, he could easily fit into the new role and take off after the cattle rustlers.

Today, many large city police forces are coming full circle. They figuratively are pinning the deputy's star on thousands of civilians—men and women, young and old, from corporation executives to college boys—to do police work full-time or part-time.

The object is to free more trained policemen to patrol the crime-ridden, often riot-troubled city streets.

Los Angeles has more than 30 gray-uniformed civilians directing traffic at street corners and hopes to replace eventually all "fixed post" policemen with civilians. Already more than 22 per cent of the police department in the California city is civilians.

Columbus, Ohio, has civilians driving the wreckers that tow away illegally parked cars and uses persons who couldn't physically qualify as policemen—including the handicapped—to check parking meters and write tickets.

New York City's 28,000-man police force is augmented by nearly 4,900 paid civilian employees, including 223 "meter maids," and another 2,200 auxiliary policemen who are unsalaried.

The 12,000 regular policemen of Chicago are freed for crime-fighting by more than 1,200 civilian clerical workers, 1,300 women crossing guards, and 264 teen-aged police cadets.

Across the nation, civilians, in uniform or mufti, paid or unpaid, are doing fingerprinting, cooking, working as mechanics in motor pools, keeping records, serving as desk officers, handling traffic at parades, athletic events and conventions, skin diving for bodies, manning radio networks and telephone switchboards, working in laboratories, chauffeuring officials, even acting as technicians at the scene of the crime.

The posse concept, revived in many cities as a reaction to riots or rash of burglaries and rapes, is frequently more popular with the civilian population than with police officials.

But officials in Maricopa County, Ariz., in which the city of Phoenix rises out of the desert where mounted posses kicked up clouds of dust in the old days, still love posses.

Wives To Get

Flight Discount

HONOLULU (AP) — Wives of wounded servicemen may soon fly to Honolulu from the mainland for $35 less than at present.

The Military Bureau of the Air Transport Command has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for the discount.

The discount is available for family members of servicemen coming here from Vietnam on rest and recuperation leave.

A wounded helicopter pilot at Tripler Army hospital here complained recently that his wife couldn't get a discount because he was wounded seven days before he was due in Honolulu on leave.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed bids will be received by the Division of Water, of the City of Circleville, State of Ohio at 114 W. Franklin St., until 12 o'clock noon on Wednesday, 1 May 1968 for the following:

One-New, 1968 Model 1/2 ton pickup truck in accordance with specifications on file in the office of the Manager of Public Utilities.

Each and every bid must contain the full name of every person, or company interested in the same and be accompanied by a bond with an approved surety company, in the sum of $100.00, or a certified check on some solvent bank, drawn and made payable to the City of Circleville, Ohio, as a guaranty that if any bid is accepted a contract will be entered into and its performance secured in the proper manner. Should any bid be rejected such bond or check will be returned to the bidder, and should any bid be accepted such bond or check will be returned to the bidder upon proper execution and securing of the contract. The successful bidder, if any, will be required to execute the contract within 10 days after the award of the same to him. In case of failure to execute the contract as stated the bidder will be considered to have abandoned the contract, and the bond or check accompanying the bid shall be forfeited to the City.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

By authority of Council of the City of Circleville, Ohio, dated 5th day of April 1968.

Approved: (s) O. Charles Hosterman

City Solicitor

George A. Fissell, Chairman

Board of Public Utilities

City of Circleville, Ohio

April 17, 24

In addition to six mounted posses—which now do only such work as search and rescue and crowd control—the county has a jeep posse, a range posse, a water safety posse, an air posse, a divers' posse and a parachute posse.

Most of the posse members are businessmen, some retired. The parachute posse is composed of a half-dozen doctors with parachute training.

One police chief who admits to "mixed emotions" about civilian posses is Bob Chewning of Orlando, Fla. When a newspaper sponsored a "Pistol-Packing Posse" of women frightened by a series of rape cases, thousands of women brought their guns to the police for instruction in how to use them.

Chewning said not only did this take up the precious time of police officers, but many of the guns, brought in by women from 18 to 80, would have exploded if they had tried to fire them.

Another who is leery of the posse is Denver's new police chief, George Seaton. He thinks his city, in spite of its cattle rustling and posse-riding history, can do without such civilian aid. But he makes a clear distinction between posses and the 75-man police auxiliary, serving without pay on traffic and crowd control duties, with its own radio network tied in with that of the police.

These men, he said, are just good citizens, and "the mayor and I are hopeful we can do something for them financially before too long."

Members of the mounted posse of Franklin County, Ohio, furnish their own horses, the dress uniforms they wear in parades, and the work uniforms they wear when helping police handle riots, strikes and man hunts.

The Concerned Citizens of Harrisburg, Pa., patrolled their streets nightly with notepads and pencils, jotting down notes on suspicious persons and license numbers of suspicious cars, for several weeks last December, and there was a noticeable drop in crime.

Kansas City gives awards to citizens who report suspicious incidents or come to the aid of the police in catching criminals and San Francisco enlists the aid of amateur detectives by distributing thousands of leaflets on which to write down descriptions of suspicious persons or autos to be passed on to the police. Police officials are almost universally grateful for aid from the civilian population, so long as it doesn't take the law into its own hands.

Quinn Tamm, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, thinks there is "a definite place for civilians in police forces." He says the association advises police departments to get their officers "out from behind the desks and onto the streets."

Kansas City's police chief, Clarence M. Kelley, applauds

citizen cooperation, saying there are just not enough policemen "to do the job alone."

But Police Chief Harold Breier of Milwaukee maintains a "no help wanted" policy. He doesn't even want meter maids. "Only a fully and completely trained police officer," he says, "can do the job."

—And Drom Braman, mayor of Seattle, agrees.

"It is difficult enough," he says, "to get trained, mature police officers to use calm judgment in emergencies, much less inexperienced civilians."

WASHINGTON (P) — Riot control equipment stocked by many cities remained in warehouses during the disorders that swept the country after the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King. Authorities relied instead on manpower, administered quickly and in heavy doses.

It is apparent that most cities followed the still fresh recommendations of the President's

Commission on Civil Disorders which said "There are no all-purpose control tactics... the cardinal requirement is to have enough men available to put into effect whatever tactics are used."

Effectiveness of the early show of strength is shown by the relatively light death toll—39 in the more than 100 cities that had disturbances.

An Associated Press survey of nine major cities that experienced disturbances in the period of April 4-12 showed that officials followed the principle enunciated by Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit: "We would rather overreact than underreact."

Well in advance of any signs of major violence, Cavanagh effected an 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew, went on live television to explain it to the city, forbade the sale of guns, ammunition, liquor, and beer, closed theaters and other public meeting places.

In his TV address Cavanagh stressed the city was "fully mobilized," indicating all 4,200 Detroit policemen were available for instant duty along with 400 state police sent to the city by Gov. George Romney. Cavanagh also announced he had requested that 3,000 national guardsmen be deployed in Detroit.

In the aftermath of the July

1967 riots in Detroit, where 43 were killed and damage exceeded $44 million, there was criticism that all agencies reacted with too little and did it too late, that they tried to match their buildup of force with the buildup in violence.

"The last time we had to take corrective action," Gov. Romney said, "this time it was preventive action."

Detroit counted only two deaths in disorders this month, had 21 fires and 739 arrests—a marked contrast to the widespread shooting, burning and looting last year.

The contrast in Chicago between trouble in 1966 and this month was in the nature of the violence and the response. The 1966 riot began July 12 and lasted until July 15 when guardsmen arrived.

Two years ago fire bombing was aimed at police and firemen and large mobs taunted police.

This time, the rioting began April 5 and so did the arrival of the guard—with federal troops arriving the next day. A total of 6,900 guardsmen, 5,000 federal troops poured in to help 11,000 Chicago policemen.

Disorder in Chicago, where 11 were killed, and damage was estimated at $10 million, began to taper off quickly with the troops on the scene. Most of April's burning and looting was sporadic and few mobs of any size gathered in the riot areas.

Mayor Richard J. Daley touched off a wave of controversy after the riot when he rebuked Police Supt. James B. Conlisk for not issuing "shoot on sight" orders.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark took a stand against such reliance and firepower, saying, "I do not believe that the use of deadly force by law enforcement officers is permissible except in self-defense or when it is necessary to protect the lives of others."

Washington, which had $13.3 million property damage, also restored order with manpower Thursday night and continued nearly unchecked for most of the next day until enough troops were brought in to help the city's police force enforce a rigid curfew. Once the more than 12,000 troops were on the scene, the disturbances ebbed quickly.

As in other cities, soldiers and guardsmen moved into Washington with unloaded weapons, although all carried ammunition. They teamed with city police and let police make arrests.

When trouble threatened in Pittsburgh, national guardsmen were on weekend training at their armories and units got on the road within an hour—most of the men didn't even have time to call home.

Cincinnati experienced the most serious rioting in a 2½ hour period. Authorities credited fast reaction time by police and the National Guard, plus quick establishment of a curfew, for the rapid restoration of order.

In Nashville, Tenn., officials believe the presence of the guard helped avoid outbreaks.

Kansas City, Mo., had six deaths and the most serious incidents of sniping. Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri had ordered out the guard at 10:20 a.m. the day of Dr. King's funeral. The trouble began at noon.

Civil rights and religious leaders in Kansas City have asked for a federal investigation of police work, saying police used tear gas indiscriminately and without provocation.

Mayor Ilus W. Davis apologized for the tear gas incidents—some say it was started by juveniles who had stolen canisters from a police car—but Police Chief Clarence Kelley defended use of gas as the most humane method of riot control available. The chief said his men did "a magnificent job under great strain."

Gov. Spiro M. Agnew of Maryland was among those unhappy about restraint in checking looters and Baltimore Fire Chief John J. Killen said of the 11,000 soldiers and national guardsmen in his city, "I don't know what the hell they've been doing." Baltimore had 900 fires in three days.

St. Louis, Mo., was among major cities without serious incidents. It had, instead, a march of 35,000 people in a memorial service for Dr. King. The city's Board of Police Commissioners praised its citizenry for expressing "their concern in a manner which should win the nation's respect."

'Rhodes Raiders' After Sugar Beets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes, who has led his "Rhodes Raiders" on blitz business trips across the nation, says he's now aiming to beet up the state's beet sugar industry.

"We are going to be No. 1 in the beet-sugar industry," he told a luncheon staged Tuesday to honor members of the "Rhodes Raiders" team.

Cards Manage To Down Reds in Only 10 Innings

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Aware of their apparent 12th-inning weakness, the St. Louis Cardinals struck at the Reds early Tuesday night—in the 10th inning.

St. Louis downed Cincinnati 4-2 on Lou Brock's two-run homer in the bottom of the 10th to bring the Cardinals to a 1-2 standing in the season series with the Reds, all in extra innings.

The Reds edged the Cardinals 4-3 in 12 innings two consecutive nights last week.

Tuesday night's game appeared to be a reverse of last week's game where the Reds trailed until late innings and then knotted the games and eventually went on to win.

Cincinnati held a 2-0 lead going into the ninth and seemed to be coasting to a victory as starter George Culver had kept the Cardinals in check, not permitting a man to advance past second and holding them to four hits.

But then Curt Flood walked to lead off the inning and Roger Maris followed with a single to right. Manager Dave Bristol decided to bring in ace reliever Ted Abernathy who cooled the Cardinals in relief jobs last week. But Abernathy ran into a little trouble, not of his own making.

He got Orlando Cepeda to hit a ground ball, but third baseman Tony Perez fielded it and hurled a throw into centerfield trying for a play at second. Flood scored and Dick Simpson, who ran for Maris, moved to third, and then crossed the plate on Tim McCarver's ground ball to tie the game.

Culver, pressed into a starting role because several Cincinnati pitchers are suffering sed 24 2-3 innings, giving up only 18 hits and four earned runs.

Perez gave the Reds a 2-0 bulge in the sixth inning on his single that score Vada Pinson who had doubled. Leo Cardenas drove in the first run with a sacrifice fly in the fifth.

DuPont Mixed League Holds Awards Fete

New officers for the 1968-69 bowling season were elected when the DuPont Mixed League held its bowling banquet Friday at Wardell's Party Home.

The new officers are: David Whaley, president; Donald Flieri, vice president; Marge Spalding, secretary; Beverly Dahl, treasurer.

The first place team, Goode-Dahl, also had the high series with a 2,285 and the high single with an 898.

Lorene Miller captured both the high single 245 and the high series (568) for the women while Edwin Reynolds and Robert Dahl tied for high series for the men at 610. Leroy Kadow had the high men's single with a 255.

Littering Law Enforcement Is Planned

Fred A. Schob, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Wildlife, District One enforcement supervisor, issued a warning against dumping trash and littering of public hunting and fishing areas.

"Each year," said Schob, "this becomes an ever increasing problem. Complaints from irate sportsmen have shown the need for stricter enforcement. Efforts will be made to apprehend those individuals who are thoughtless and persist in littering public areas which are used by many people with varied interests throughout the year."

"After June 4 this year," continued Schob, "our game protectors will be enforcing littering laws not only on public lands but also on private property which borders on streams and rivers. Recent legislation has given our officers authority to enforce laws which prohibit the dumping of refuse into or along waters."

"After June 4," Schob advised, "anyone found littering along streams will be issued a citation. Just a little effort on the part of the sportsmen will not only keep them out of trouble but will enhance landowner-sportsman relationships. Respect for landowner's property will assure you a place to hunt and fish again," Schob said. "This includes cleaning up beer cans, pop bottles and picnic wastes so the landowner won't have to do it. After he gives you permission to use his land, why should he have to clean up your mess?"

Deer Creek Lake Closed to Fishing

The new Deer Creek Reservoir in western Pickaway County will not be open for fishing during 1968 according to Dan C. Armbruster, chief of the Ohio Division of Wildlife, Department of Natural Resources.

Reasons for closing the reservoir to fishing are to prevent over harvesting of young walleye, muskies and bass that have been stocked this year.

A closed fishing season on the area will provide protection of the predator fish which will control the panfish and in turn provide better quality fishing.

CHS Grads Average 79 on OU Golf Squad

Bruce Helwag and Tim Dickinson, Circleville High School graduates, are averaging 78.8 and 79 respectively for the Ohio University golf team this year.

Helwag has a 2-3-2 record while Dickinson has won two matches and lost two.

The OU golf team has a 15-3 record.

Giants Trounce Phillies, 7-1

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Juan Marichal moaned and Jim Davenport groaned, but nobody in the San Francisco locker room took them very seriously.

"I don't like to pitch in this cold weather," said Marichal of the 46-degree Philadelphia temperature as if the Giants had lost instead of beating the Phillies 7-1 Tuesday night. "It's tough to get loose and you can't sweat very good."

"I didn't figure I hit the grand-slam homer too good," said Davenport. But those four of his five runs batted in for the evening were not quite that easy to shrug off. At least not to the Phillies.

Marichal's victory was his third of the season without a defeat. Of his last 80 victories, 79 have been complete games.

Philadelphia had 10 hits off Marichal but couldn't do much with them.

In other National League games, St. Louis beat Cincinnati 4-2 in 10 innings, Chicago crushed Atlanta 10-4 and New York stopped Houston 3-1. Los Angeles and Pittsburgh were rained out.

Davenport's homer was his first of the season and the third with the bases full of his career.

Lou Brock's two-run homer in the 10th won for the Cardinals, who were trailing 2-0 going into the ninth. George Culver was hurling a four-hitter but was lifted after a walk and a single.

Tony Perez' throwing error opened the gates for the tying runs.

The Cubs erupted for six runs in the fourth inning in a battle between Joe Niekro, the Chicago pitcher, and his brother Phil, who threw for the Braves.

"I didn't exactly outpitch him," said Joe of Phil. "I didn't have great stuff. He struck me out on four good knucklers and he shouldn't do that. He should give his little brother nothing but fastballs down the middle."

The Mets got another fine pitching performance from Jerry Koosman, even though his shutout streak ended at 21 innings. The rookie gave up only four hits and struck out 11. The Mets took advantage of four Astros' errors to score the winning runs.

Softball Loop Slates Meet

The final organizational meeting of the Circleville Slow-Pitch Softball League will be held 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Ohio National Guard Armory, 151 E. Franklin St.

The entry fee of $75 and team rosters should be ready at that time, Chet Iery Sr., league president, emphasized.

Deadline for entering the league is noon Monday. Games will be played Wednesday and Sundays at Ted Lewis Park.

The tentative schedule for the league begins May 5.

Persons interested in umpiring for the league should contact Iery or Bill Archer or attend the Sunday meeting.

Colonels, Chiefs Tied in IL Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's not hard to see why the Louisville Colonels are making such a successful debut in the International League.

The Colonels completed a four game sweep of their opening series by knocking off Toledo 5-3 Tuesday night, and Billy Rohr became the third Louisville pitcher in a row to hurl a complete game.

Despite their fourth successive victory, the Colonels remained tied for the league lead with the Syracuse Chiefs, who also wound up a four-game sweep by edging Jacksonville 4-3.

Two Rochester pitchers gave up no earned runs, but they were victimized by four Red Wings errors and the Richmond Braves scored a 7-1 victory.

Buffalo and Columbus were not scheduled.

Tiger Track Team Loses To WR, 104-23

Mel Smith Sets CHS Record in Two-Mile Run

The Circleville High School track team, the only area athletic squad that was not rained out Tuesday, was defeated at Walnut Ridge by the host school, 104-23.

The Tigers had only two firsts in the meet. Mel Smith set a new school record as he toured the 2-mile run in 10:26.3. It was his best time ever in the distance.

Dave Hopkins, injured early in the season, is beginning to round into shape according to track coach James Lint, and won the 440 yard dash with a time of 54.3 seconds.

Jim Samuel was third in the pole vault but had his best effort for the year, clearing 11 feet.

COACH Lint reported the meet was run under sunny skies, although it rained and stormed all around.

The next competition for the Tiger track squad comes Friday at the Wilmington Invitational.

Yankees Stop at 3; Monbouquette Wins

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bill Monbouquette's smooth finishing touch has gotten the New York Yankees past the next-to-last rough spot on their high road home.

Monbouquette, a wily, 31-year-old craftsman, pitched eight innings of scoreless, two-hit relief Tuesday night as the Yankees cuffed the Oakland Athletics 6-3.

The victory was the fifth in six games on the road for the Yankees, who meet the A's again tonight before returning home for a four-game series against the torrid Detroit Tigers.

In the only other AL game played Tuesday night, Ken McMullen's three-run homer in the first inning powered the Yankees to a 4-1 victory over the California Angels. Three other games were postponed due to bad weather.

Monbouquette replaced Yankee starter Al Downing, who was making his first appearance of the year, in the second inning.

(Amended Senate Joint Resolution No. 2)

JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing to amend section 1 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Ohio relative to school and ministerial funds.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein, that there shall be submitted to the electors of the state in the manner prescribed by law at a special election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in May, 1969, a proposal to amend section 1 of Article VI of the Constitution of Ohio to read as follows:

ARTICLE VI

Section 1. The principal of all moneys arising from the sale of other disposition of lands, or other property, granted or entrusted to this State for educational and religious purposes, shall be used or disposed of in such manner as the General Assembly shall prescribe by law.

EFFECTIVE DATE AND REPEAL

If adopted by a majority of the electors voting on this amendment the amendment shall take effect July 1, 1969, and existing section 1 of Article VI of the Constitution of Ohio shall be repealed from such effective date.

(Amended Substitute House Joint Resolution No. 3)

JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing to amend section 11 of Article II of the Constitution of the State of Ohio relative to the filling of representative vacancies.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein, that there shall be submitted to the electors of the state in the manner prescribed by law at a special election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in May, 1969, a proposal to amend section 11 of Article II of the Constitution of Ohio to read as follows:

ARTICLE II

Section 11. A vacancy in the Senate, or a vacancy in the House of Representatives occurring after May 1, 1969, for the term, including the failure of a member-elect to qualify for office, shall be filled by appointment by the members of the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, who are affiliated with the same political party as the person last elected by the electors to the seat which has become vacant.

A vacancy occurring during the first twenty months of a Senatorial term shall be filled by temporary appointment, for only that portion of the term which will expire on the thirty-first day of December following the next general election occurring in an even-numbered year after the vacancy occurs, at which election the seat shall be filled by the electors as provided by law for the remaining, unexpired portion of the term.

Next following such election, no person shall be appointed to fill a vacancy in the Senate or House of Representatives, as the case may be, unless he meets the qualifications set forth in this Constitution and the laws of this state.

An appointment to fill a vacancy shall be accomplished, pursuant to section 27, Article II of this Constitution, by the adoption of a resolution, while the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, is in session, with the taking of the year and session of the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, into account.

Representatives, as the case may be, shall be spread upon the journal of the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, for the term for which he was so appointed.

EFFECTIVE DATE AND REPEAL

If adopted by a majority of the electors voting on this amendment, the amendment shall take immediate effect, and existing section 11 of Article II of the Constitution of Ohio shall be repealed from such effective date.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing to amend sections 1 and 2 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Ohio, relative to administrative organization of the courts of Ohio.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein, that there shall be submitted to the electors of the state in the manner prescribed by law at a special election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in May, 1969, a proposal to amend sections 1 and 2 of Article IV of the Constitution of Ohio to read as follows:

ARTICLE IV

Section 1. The judicial power of the state is vested in a supreme court, courts of appeals, courts of common pleas, and such other courts as may from time to time be established by law.

Section 2. (A) The supreme court shall consist of seven judges, who shall be known as the chief justice and justice.

(B) The chief justice shall be elected by the electors of the state in the manner prescribed by law at a special election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in May, 1969, a proposal to amend section 11 of Article II of the Constitution of Ohio to read as follows:

(a) Quo warrant; (b) Mandamus; (c) Habeas corpus; (d) Prohibition; (e) Proceedings; (f) In any cause on review as may be necessary to its complete determination.

(g) Admission to the practice of law, the discipline of persons so admitted, and all other matters relating to the practice of law.

(h) The supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction over the decisions of the courts of appeals.

(i) Cases originating in the courts of appeals.

(j) Cases in which the death penalty has been affirmed.

(k) Cases involving questions arising under the constitution of the United States or of this state.

(l) In appeals from the courts of appeals in cases of felony on leave first obtained.

(m) Such review jurisdiction of the proceedings of administrative officers or agencies as may be conferred by law.

(n) In cases of public or great general interest, the supreme court may direct any court of appeals to certify its record to the supreme court for review and affirm, modify, or reverse the judgment of the court of appeals.

(o) The supreme court shall review and affirm, modify, or reverse the judgment in any case certified by any court of appeals pursuant to section 3 (B) (4) of this article.

(p) No law shall be passed or rule made whereby any person shall be prevented from invoking the original jurisdiction of the supreme court.

(q) The decisions in all cases in the supreme court shall be reported, together with the reasons therefor.

Section 3. (A) The state shall be divided by law into compact appellate districts in each of which there shall be a court of appeals consisting of three judges.

Reds Slate Teen Night

CINCINNATI, O. — Baseball, beauty and music will share top billing at Crosley Field Friday night when the Cincinnati Reds stage their first "Teen Night" of the season.

Gil Hodges' improved New York Mets provide the opposition during the three game weekend series. The Reds and Mets meet at 8:05 p.m. on Teen Night, 7 p.m. Saturday and at 2:15 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

Miss Universe, Sylvia Louise Hitchcock, Ohio's Junior Miss, Melissa Rhode of Middletown and Cincinnati's Junior Miss, Cindy Schoo, will be in attendance on Teen Night to participate in first-ball throwing ceremonies.

Miss Universe's trip to Cincinnati is co-sponsored by Catalina Swimwear and McAlpin's.

Carl Edmondson and the Driving Winds, featuring The Two of Clubs, are scheduled for a pre-game concert beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Still Can't Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jerry Proctor, a 19-year-old freshman at the University of Redlands, not only won three events but placed third in two more and ran on a relay team Tuesday night. But his team dropped a dual track meet to Occidental College, 100-44.

modify, or reverse judgments or final orders of the courts of record inferior to the court of appeals within the district and shall have such appellate jurisdiction as may be provided by law to review and affirm, modify, or reverse final orders or actions of administrative officers or agencies.

(3) A majority of the judges hearing the cause shall be necessary to render a judgment. Judgments of the courts of appeals are final, except as provided in section 2 (B) of this article. No judgment resulting from a trial by jury shall be reversed on the weight of the evidence except by the concurrence of all three judges hearing the cause.

(4) Whenever the judges of a court of appeals find that a judgment upon which they have agreed is in conflict with a judgment pronounced upon the same question by any other court of appeals of the state, the judges shall certify the record of the case to the supreme court for review and final determination.

(5) Laws may be passed providing for the reporting of cases in the courts of appeals.

Section 4. (A) There shall be a court of common pleas in each county of the state. Any judge of a court of common pleas may temporarily hold court in any county.

Each county shall have at least one resident judge and shall have additional resident judges as provided by law. In counties having more than one judge, the judges shall select one of their number to act as presiding judge, to serve at their pleasure. If the judges are unable because of equal division of the vote to make such selection, the presiding judge shall be selected by the vote of a majority of the judges of the court.

The courts of common pleas shall have such original jurisdiction over all justiciable matters and such powers of review of proceedings of administrative officers and agencies as may be provided by law.

(C) Unless otherwise provided by law, there shall be a probate division of the courts of common pleas, and judges shall be elected specifically to such probate division and shall be empowered to employ and control the clerks, employees, deputies and referees of such probate division of the common pleas courts.

(D) The supreme court shall appoint an administrative director who shall assist the chief justice and who shall serve at the pleasure of the court. The duties and powers of the administrative director shall be determined by the court.

(E) The chief justice or acting chief justice, as necessity arises, shall assign a court of common pleas temporarily to sit or hold court on any other court of common pleas or any other court of appeals temporarily to sit or hold court on any other court of common pleas or any other court of appeals.

(F) The supreme court shall have the right to remove any judge of a court of common pleas or any judge of a court of appeals from office for cause. The removal shall be by a majority vote of the supreme court.

TV School Board Appoints Principals and Teachers

The Teays Valley Board of Education held its regular meeting 8 p.m. Monday. After approval of previous minutes, transfers of funds were approved.

Board policy for entrance age of children during the 1968-69 school year was adopted. Children may enter school if their sixth birthday is on or before Sept. 30. of the current school year. Requests by letter from parents made directly to the county office will be accepted for special testing of underage youngsters who wish early admittance.

Enumeration of the children in the Teays Valley School District will be made, starting from birth through age seven. The enumeration is to be completed by June 30. This will enable the school to better determine the number of students enrolling in the first grade.

Resignations were received from James B. Annegan and William Pangburn. Delight Irwin, teacher, and Edwin Irwin, principal of the Ashville School, have retired after many years of service to the school and community.

Following teachers are re-employed in the district: Ellen England, Terry Barthelmas and Fred Brobst.

Byron W. Rose of Williamsport was employed to teach industrial arts in the district. Home instruction will be taught by Kip Smith.

Dayton Sheets and T. E. Snyder were appointed as elementary principals. Richard Snider, who returned to the district this year, has been appointed principal of the High School for the 1968-69 school year.

Dale Allen was employed as painter for the summer months in the elementary buildings. Bids were read and compared on paint for the buildings with the bid going to the Ashville Hardware.

Fulbright Questions Cash Outlay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., questions the spending of $4 million a year to investigate more than 8,000 Peace Corps trainees when only 10 to 15 are let go on the basis of information gleaned from such probes.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told Peace Corps Director Jack Vaughn at a hearing Tuesday: "It costs you $400,000 each to find out about them. If it's so minimal, it seems you could take a chance. It's not going to destroy the Peace Corps."

Vaughn replied his understanding is the law requires such investigations. He added the resulting information also helps in deciding whether an individual should be sent overseas.

Aside from this, however, Fulbright praised the Peace Corps and suggested it should have sought more than the $112.8 million requested in the fiscal 1969 budget.

Ocean Liner Becomes Huge Pop Art Poster

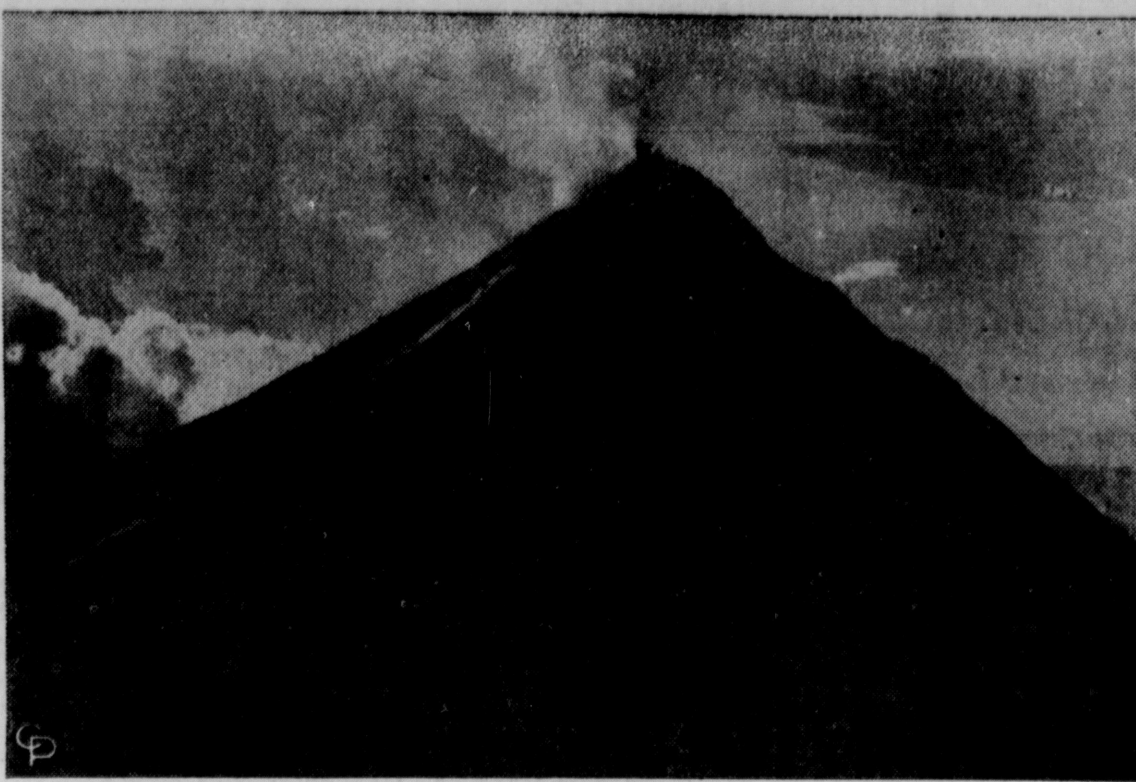

NEW YORK (AP) — The pervasive influence of psychedelia has made itself felt on the waterfront and the result is a pop art ocean liner.

The American Export Isbrandtsen Lines passenger ship Independence sailed into New York harbor Tuesday and raised a few eyebrows with her psychedelic paint job.

Her tradition-shattering appearance featured a 500-foot exterior mural resembling an enormous orange, yellow and raspberry sunburst radiating from a pair of feminine eyes.

The 23,754-ton liner, which served her first 17 years as a conservatively painted cruise ship, was restyled inside and out at a cost of $3 million to become a European-plan hotel ship.

One executive said the transformed Independence "represents one of the most exciting ships with a different beat."

VOLCANO ERUPTS IN PHILIPPINES—Mt. Mayon, an 8,284-foot volcano about 200 miles southeast of Manila, The Philippines, belches smoke and spills volcanic ash down its slope as southern Luzon is rocked by pre-dawn eruptions. Dirksen Urges Aid to Poor

Wants Congress To Take Lead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen says Congress should take the lead in making slums more livable and in providing jobs "for the young, both black and white."

His call came as the Southern Christian Leadership Conference prepared for the Poor People's Campaign, a march on Washington later this spring aimed at pressuring Congress for aid to the poor.

The plight of the poor—and the riots that have often raged in their slums in recent years—came up for discussion on several fronts in Washington Tuesday.

Dirksen told a news conference he envisions a pilot program in which tax credits would be given industry for participating in expanded job-training efforts and for hiring workers after they are trained.

Dirksen also expressed agreement with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon that "you shouldn't promise what you can't perform." Nixon had contended that Democratic presidential contenders Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy raised false hopes by discussing massive government attacks on slum problems.

California Court Upholds Right Of Public Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A landmark decision upholding the right of the public and the press to attend criminal trials has been handed down by the California Court of Appeal.

The 40-page opinion directs Ventura County Superior Court Judge Marvin H. Lewis to make public all portions of a murder trial conducted in secret.

The trial of William Anthony Clinger, 24, accused of fatally stabbing a Ventura, Calif., bartender, was declared a mistrial Tuesday night when the jury failed to reach a verdict.

The appellate court's decision earlier Tuesday said Judge Lewis, in trying to protect the rights of the defendant, had departed from trial procedure prescribed by common law and statute. Public trial, the court held, is "a basic tenet of our legal heritage."

U.S. Has Friends

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Austrian Chancellor Joseph Klaus says the United States has "friends all over the world, even if you sometimes hear other voices." He told the World Affairs Council, "We are quite aware that you are confronted with grave problems but we are convinced you will overcome these difficult problems."

Dunkle Holds Voice Recital

Paul Dunkle will present a voice recital 4 p.m. Sunday at St. Philip's Church.

Accompanying Dunkle at the organ will be Mrs. Paul Teegardin, who will present a group of organ works by Buxtehude and Peeters.

Dunkle is a graduate of the College-Conservatory of Music (CCM) of the University of Cincinnati where he was a voice student of Fenton Pugh.

He sang with the CM Chorus, choral and performed in the opera "La Traviata" and was a member of the UC Glee Club, the Summer Chorus and the University Singers.

His other choral activities were in the Hyde Park Methodist, Kenwood Baptist and Advent Episcopal Church choirs and he was a member of "The Kings Men", an all male chorus.

Dunkle sang the role of Jesus in the world premiere of an Easter cantata, "The Last Commandment" in 1964.

Currently an elementary music teacher in Circleville, Dunkle is working toward a masters degree at Ohio State University, Columbus, where he is a voice student of John Muschick.

Works by Bunjes, Oldroyd, Handel, Gaul and Vaughan Williams will be included in the program.

FPC Chairman Says—Something

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Federal Power Commission Chairman Lee C. White says the intimate interdependence of individuals in an increasingly complex society does not need to preclude individualism.

"Ambition, a sense of opportunity, individualism—these should be, not the casualty of recent trends, but the response," he said at the 40th honors convocation at the University of Nebraska Tuesday.

Enoch Powell No Stranger To Controversy in Britain

LONDON (AP) — Enoch Powell, the man at the center of Britain's race row, is a cold-eyed intellectual intent on driving the Conservative party hard to the right.

His gaunt white face and downturned mouth are as grim as the industrial area of Wolverhampton that he represents in the House of Commons.

Although a way-out Tory of almost feudalistic views, Powell has gained strong following among the workers as well as the upper classes in the English Midlands. They call him "Nocker."

Powell, 56, is still sifting through the huge pile of letters—mostly "for" he claims—sent him after his speech last Saturday. In it he called for the gates to clang shut on colored immigration into Britain and for colored people already here to be encouraged to go home.

Conservative party leader Edward Heath fired Powell from the party's high command, not because of his recommendations but because of the tone of the speech, which Heath and most major newspapers said was inflammatory and racist.

But Powell said he was right—"the response from people up and down the country proves that."

Powell, the new hero of the workers, has a most unworkmanlike background.

A Latin and Greek scholar and poet and master of 10 languages, he won a double first at Cambridge and became a fellow of Trinity College.

At the outbreak of World War II he was professor of Greek at the University of Sydney, Australia. He returned to Britain, joined the army as a private, and in five years was a brigadier.

After the war, Powell turned down the chair of Greek at Durham University, turned to politics and won the Wolverhampton seat for the Conservatives.

Adam Powell Has Surgery

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell was reported in satisfactory condition at a Miami hospital today after undergoing surgery.

Jackson Memorial Hospital officials declined to give details of the operation. However, Powell told a news conference in Bimini last week he was suffering from a minor prostate ailment.

Powell, who checked himself into the hospital Sunday, has refused to receive any calls or visitors. His secluded room has a "no visitors" sign on the door.

Groups Attack Police Slaying Of Young Thief

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Congress of Racial Equality has condemned the fatal shooting of a Negro youth by a policeman and demanded Mayor Carl B. Stokes hold an immediate inquiry.

Also, CORE said some direction must come from City Hall concerning police shootings "if the new-found confidence in the mayor's office was not to be destroyed irrevocably."

Frank R. Anderson, chairman of the Cleveland CORE chapter, added Tuesday that the youth, 15-year-old Donald Wylie, represented no threat to the patrolman's life, yet the officer "shot not to warn or to maim, but to kill."

Wylie was shot Monday by Patrolman Robert Livingston during a chase on the East Side. The youth died later in Mount Sinai Hospital.

Rhodes Approves Poverty Grants

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes gave approval Tuesday to federal anti-poverty grants for Toledo and Fayette County.

A $47,804 grant to the Economic Opportunity Planning Association of Greater Toledo, Inc., will allow expansion of the legal services program for low-income defendants in courts. The Toledo Legal Aid Society will administer the program.

The Fayette County Community Action Commission receives a $20,738 grant to continue its work.

TV School Board Appoints Principals and Teachers

The Teays Valley Board of Education held its regular meeting 8 p.m. Monday. After approval of previous minutes, transfers of funds were approved.

Board policy for entrance age of children during the 1968-69 school year was adopted. Children may enter school if their sixth birthday is on or before Sept. 30, of the current school year. Requests by letter from parents made directly to the county office will be accepted for special testing of underage youngsters who wish early admittance.

Enumeration of the children in the Teays Valley School District will be made, starting from birth through age seven. The enumeration is to be completed by June 30. This will enable the school to better determine the number of students enrolling in the first grade.

Resignations were received from James B. Annegan and William Pangburn. Delight Irwin, teacher, and Edwin Irwin, principal of the Ashville School, have retired after many years of service to the school and community.

Following teachers are re-employed in the district: Ellen England, Terry Barthelmas and Fred Brobst.

Byron W. Rose of Williamsport was employed to teach industrial arts in the district. Home instruction will be taught by Kip Smith.

Dayton Sheets and T. E. Snyder were appointed as elementary principals. Richard Snider, who returned to the district this year, has been appointed principal of the High School for the 1968-69 school year.

Dale Allen was employed as painter for the summer months in the elementary buildings. Bids were read and compared on paint for the buildings with the bid going to the Ashville Hardware.

Fulbright Questions Cash Outlay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., questions the spending of $4 million a year to investigate more than 8,000 Peace Corps trainees when only 10 to 15 are let go on the basis of information gleaned from such probes.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told Peace Corps Director Jack Vaughn at a hearing Tuesday: "It costs you $400,000 each to find out about them. If it's so minimal, it seems you could take a chance. It's not going to destroy the Peace Corps."

Vaughn replied his understanding is the law requires such investigations. He added the resulting information also helps in deciding whether an individual should be sent overseas.

Aside from this, however, Fulbright praised the Peace Corps and suggested it should have sought more than the $112.8 million requested in the fiscal 1969 budget.

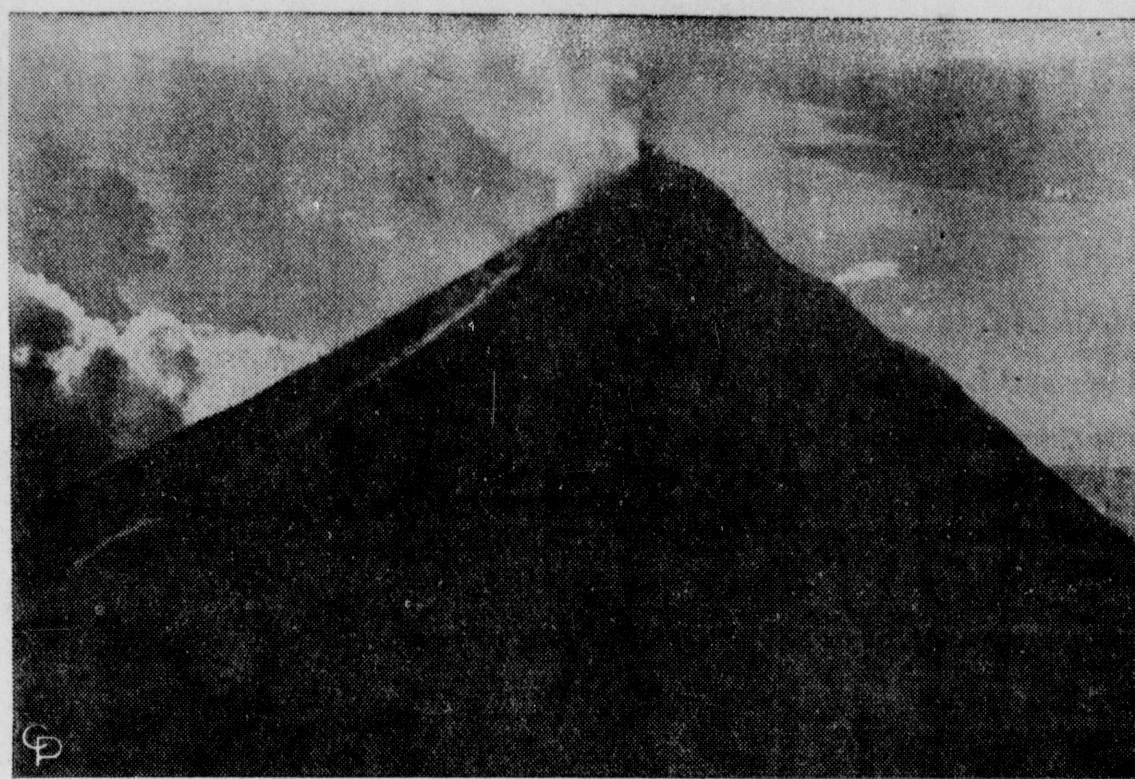

Ocean Liner Becomes Huge Pop Art Poster

NEW YORK (AP) — The pervasive influence of psychedelia has made itself felt on the waterfront and the result is a pop art ocean liner.

The American Export Isbrandtsen Lines passenger ship Independence sailed into New York harbor Tuesday and raised a few eyebrows with her psychedelic paint job.

Her tradition-shattering appearance featured a 500-foot exterior mural resembling an enormous orange, yellow and raspberry sunburst radiating from a pair of feminine eyes. The 23,754-ton liner, which served her first 17 years as a conservatively painted cruise ship, was restyled inside and out at a cost of $3 million to become a European-plan hotel ship.

One executive said the transformed Independence "represents one of the most exciting ships with a different beat."
